Negro Chiefs Seized

Police Surround Native Quarter

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (Reuters) — Thirty members of the African National Congress were arrested in the Sophiatown native quarter here Monday night, a few hours before the second transfer of Negro families from the district to a new segregated township outside the city was due to begin.

Robert Resha, secretary of the congress' Transvaal branch, said the arrested persons were congress volunteers engaged in assisting families that have received eviction notices but wish to remain in Sophiatown.

Police closed in and arrested the 30 as they called at seven homes in the district, Resha said. The volunteers were seeking to help families move from their doomed homes into other quarters in Sophiatown, instead of being shifted by the government to Meadowlands, the government's new resettlement township, 10 miles outside the city.

Resha said a cordon of police had been placed around all houses from which 150 families were scheduled to be moved before dawn. "No one was allowed to go near the houses," he declared.

He said there were no incidents during the arrests.

Resha himself was arrested a week ago for allegedly violating a government order prohibiting assemblies during the first stages of the compulsory removal program, but was released within 24 hours.

HOMES SCRAPPED

The government has already evicted 150 families and started to demolish their homes. A new, all-white suburb eventually is planned on the Sophiatown site.

About 50 of the families evicted last week moved into other quarters in the district, while the remainder were transported by a fleet of government trucks to their new homes at Meadowlands. The removal program has been bitterly condemned by the African congress and many church leaders in this country.

Ultimately, about 70,000 natives are due to be moved by the government from Johannesburg districts to Meadowlands, in the biggest mass transfer of population in South Africa's history.

Third Trial Begins

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Circus worker Lawrence Vincent made legal history in British Columbia yesterday when he appeared at the assize court here for his third trial on the same murder charge.

Vincent, alias Aaron Hinton, was charged with the shoelace strangulation of 12-year-old Donna Lee Corbett of Quesnel on September 12, 1953.

He was convicted last summer and sentenced to be hanged. On appeal, he was granted a second trial but the jury failed to agree on a verdict and a third trial was ordered.

Defense counsel Raymond Hughes yesterday won the judge's approval to suppress from evidence two police pictures of the victim's body. Mr. Justice Wendell B. Farris held that the photographs could "inflame" the jury by their "horribleness."

Islands Hail Visitor

PRINCESS MARGARET

Now at St. John's

Gay Princess Continues Tour

ST. JOHN'S, Antigua (Reuters)—Princess Margaret arrived at this "rum-and-arrowroot" Caribbean island Monday on a royal barge which edged into the harbor between sloops and fishing boats festooned with Union Jacks.

The princess, wearing a turquoise straw hat and a full-skirted blue shantung dress, laughed gaily as she stepped onto a decorated pier to be welcomed by the governor of the Leeward Islands, Sir Kenneth Blackburne, and Lady Blackburne.

She came to St. John's harbor on the royal yacht Britannia after a 300-mile cruise from Bridgetown, Barbados. It was one of the stops in her month-long tour of the West Indies.

Some 20,000 people attended a morning rally shortly before noon at which the princess expressed regret she was unable to visit Montserrat.

Monday afternoon, the princess attended a garden party at Government House, and dined privately there in the evening.

Bulganin Says:

Russia Not Changing Attitude Toward U.S.

LONDON (UP)—Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin said in an interview with American newsmen distributed by the Tass Agency yesterday that the recent reshuffle in Russia's leadership meant no change in policy towards the United States.

The Soviet agency distributed the questions and answers of Bulganin's interview Saturday with American publisher William Randolph Hearst, Jr., J. Kingsbury Smith, chief European correspondent of the International News Service and Frank Conniff, editor of the New York Journal American.

Hearst asked Bulganin whether the Soviet premier did not think Russia's change in leadership meant a change in attitude towards the United States, Tass said.

Hearst asked Bulganin whether Russia would be ready, even before banning atomic weapons, to conclude with the United States and other Western powers an agreement limiting the number of experimental nuclear explosions.

Bulganin replied it would be necessary to proceed in the more radical manner proposed by the Soviet Union. He said Russia proposed banning completely atomic, hydrogen and other types of mass extermination weapons, halting such weapons manufacture and removing them from the armaments race.

Bulganin added that the proposal limiting experiments would yield nothing.

Conniff asked whether an address by Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov in the Supreme Soviet might create the impression that the United States wanted war.

Conniff asked, "Did not Bulganin think that abstention from attacks on the U.S.A. by Soviet official personalities and on the U.S.S.R. by U.S. official personalities would be useful in strengthening peace?"

Chiang To Hold Islands

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Speculation rose Monday over whether the United States would help defend Matsu and Quemoy after President Chiang Kai-shek declared the islands never would be abandoned.

The U.S. 7th Fleet, which covered the peaceful withdrawal from the Tachen Islands north of Formosa, was returning to patrol stations around Formosa and to other Far East bases.

There was no confirmation here of Peiping radio's boast that the Communists Sunday "liberated" the Tachens, 200 miles north of Formosa.

It was considered likely the "liberation" consisted of a small landing party from nearby Red islets.

There were more reports of Communist boat concentrations near the Matsus, off the coast 100 miles northwest of Formosa, but there was no indication of any intent to invade. Such concentrations are usual.

President Chiang predicted at a press conference, however, that occupation of the Tachens would make the Red "more adventurous." His interpreter said Chiang meant the Communists would try to attack Formosa.

Peiping radio in a follow-up broadcast to its "liberation" announcement asserted the Nationalist "abducted" Tachen civilians "assisted by American armed forces."

LONDON (Reuters)—Foreign Secretary Eden said Monday Nationalist China "must" be represented along with Communist China at any international conference to settle the Formosa problem.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Rebuffed by Red China and Russia, the UN Security Council Monday suspended indefinitely its public efforts to achieve a cease-fire in Formosa strait. It left the next move to diplomatic manoeuvres here and in the capitals of the major powers.

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Mao Tse-tung, the Chinese Communist head of state, declared Monday night Russia and China would wipe the "imperialists" off the face of the world if they started a war of aggression.

MOSCOW (CP)—Nicolai Bulganin, Russia's new premier, Monday night pledged that Soviet aid for Communist China "will be forthcoming whenever necessary."

Pineau Gets Bid To Form New Cabinet

PARIS (Reuters)—Christian Pineau, a former Buchenwald concentration camp inmate who writes children's books in his spare time, Monday was asked to become premier of France's 21st post-war government.

The 50-year-old lawyer promised to reply to President Rene Coty tonight after getting a green light Monday night from his fellow Socialists who, with more than 100 seats, represent the strongest party in the National Assembly.

Pineau is the third candidate to try to form a government since Pierre Mendes-France's regime fell 10 days ago.

Pineau told newspaper men he admires Mendes-France and hopes to follow his methods.

TV's Father Is No TV Fan

Holdup Suspects Nabbed

WINNIPEG (BUP)—Three men were charged with the armed robbery of $30,000 from a branch of the Toronto-Dominion Bank today after a province-wide dragnet hauled them in last night within hours of the theft.

Police said the suspects were Sanual Ronald Sedan, 25, of Winnipeg; Fred Gordon Bush, 27, of Calgary, Alta., and Mitchel Herman, 32, no fixed address. Police said Bush also used the alias Eugene Austin Hartson.

George Blow, Winnipeg police superintendent, said that when the money found on the suspects is counted, it is expected to equal the amount stolen. The bank gave the exact tally as $31,397.

Bush and Herman were arrested at Sprague, Man., by RCMP constables J. C. Mansbridge and J. P. R. Beaudette. A tip sent the police to Piney, Man., where they learned a train had just pulled out for Sprague. They went to Sprague and recognized the two suspects on the train.

The bandits forced their way into the bank Monday morning before opening time. As the employees arrived one by one, they herded the four men and two women — plus a delivery man — into a basement vault after forcing teller Tom Bissett to open the main vault. They took Bissett's car for the getaway.

Mystery Ends

ANGUS MACDONALD

Cloak-and-dagger mystery of the "radioactive vial" ended yesterday when veteran Angus MacDonald of Beardmore, Ont., learned the tiny, two-ounce bottle of luminous substance he smuggled into Canada after the war was worth only $25. At first it was rumored the vial contained either radium or uranium worth about $1,000,000. Tests showed the substance was similar to that used for luminous clock dials however.

IWA Plans To Demand Higher Pay

VANCOUVER (BUP)—The British Columbia district of the International Woodworkers of America set the stage last night for a 1955 wage hike campaign while delegates gathered for the group's four-day annual convention.

Resolutions going before the convention ask wage increases of 12½ to 15-per cent and recommend an increase in the union's strike fund to $5,000,000.

President Joe Morriss of Duncan told delegates the majority of B.C. loggers need higher wages and more job security.

However, he cautioned the union against staging a "raid on the industry."

The district council told members permission would be sought from international headquarters to organize Alberta to protect the union's "exposed organizational flank."

Godfrey In Pain

MIAMI BEACH (UP)—Television and radio star Arthur Godfrey said yesterday he probably will have to undergo a second operation on his hip "if I am ever to walk again without pain."

Godfrey said he had been thinking about such an operation for a long time but denied reports that he had made any definite plans for it yet.

He injured the hip many years ago in an automobile accident.

Highway Sealed Off

Great Blast Anticipated In U.S. Test

AEC Gives Go-Ahead For Atomic Explosion

BULLETIN

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—The Atomic Energy Commission early today called off the nuclear blast scheduled for this morning because of fear that developing cloud formations might carry radiation over populated areas.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—With a forecast of "safe" weather, AEC officials gave the go-ahead Monday night for an A-bomb blast, apparently a "big one" that will open the 1955 winter-spring nuclear test series this morning.

For the first time in five years of testing America's arsenal of atomic weapons at the Nevada proving grounds, Highway 95 passing within 40 miles of the test site was blocked off by police "to keep drivers from being blinded and going off the road."

This led to speculation that the device was a large one, perhaps as powerful as 50,000 tons of TNT, or maybe as large as the biggest one ever touched off here—a 65,000 tonner two years ago whose flash was seen in Montana, 1,000 miles away.

Troops participating in the test also were not as close to "ground zero" this time as they have been in some previous test. The six-foot-deep trenches dug to hold some of the 1,100 military personnel taking part are at least two and one-quarter miles away, AEC officials said.

The flash of the "ordinary" A-bomb, in the neighborhood of 15 kilotons (equivalent to 15,000 tons of TNT) has in the past been witnessed by residents of at least three states—California, Utah and Nevada.

ZERO HOUR SET

A briefing late Monday for newsmen confirmed that the shot was set to go from a 500-foot steel tower at the north end of Yucca Flat at 5.45 a.m. (PST) barring any last-minute switch in wind and weather conditions.

Richard Elliott, director of the joint office of test information, said he could not comment officially on an unverified report that the device was the A-bomb "trigger" of the cataclysmic H-bomb. The speculation grew out of a statement that the test was a "major effort of the Livermore (Calif) laboratory."

Elliott commented that "I do not think we can make any distinctions between the Livermore and Los Alamos laboratories since both work on the entire range of atomic weapons."

MANY OBSERVERS

Military observers participating include 375 observers from the army continental command, 100 observers from the navy, air force and marines, 450 soldiers from the permanent "housekeeping" detachment from nearby Camp Desert Rock and 175 miscellaneous men in control parties.

The AEC, acutely aware of public complaints and worry over safety from radiological "fall out," planned to hold the lanyard on the firing control until the last minute with an eye cocked on weather charts.

Any sudden and unpredicted shift in the wind would cause instant postponement until disappearance of any danger from an unscheduled drift over populated areas.

The shot is the 33rd A-bomb detonation held in continental United States, but the first in two years. Other atomic and hydrogen tests have been held at Eniwetok, in the Pacific.

BULLETINS

DUNEDIN, N.Z. (Reuters)—A jury early today found blonde Dr. Senga Whittingham, 27, not guilty of murder of the doctor-lover she shot to death last year.

The jurors decided that Dr. Whittingham had accidentally killed Dr. John W. Saunders, 27, at a hospital party.

Plane Hunt Continues All Night

ROME (Reuters)—Ships and planes Monday night pressed a search for a Belgian airliner missing since Sunday night with 29 persons on board.

United States and Italian planes returned to their bases at dusk after vainly scouring the region north of Rome throughout the day. But 1,000 land and sea searchers carried out an all-night hunt for the missing plane.

Phone Carries Girl's Pleas

Officer Hears Axe Attack

CLOVIS, N.M. (AP)—A helpless police desk sergeant listened over the telephone Sunday night to a 14-year-old girl pleading for her life as an axe-wielding assailant beat down her bedroom door.

Sgt. Leroy Carson said Janice Wells, alone in her home, phoned for help after hearing the man at the door. She was able to give only her address before the door crashed in, but the phone remained off the hook.

Carson said he dispatched a squad car at once. The car, only six blocks away, arrived just after the unknown assailant—who got away—had dragged Janice out the front door and around behind the house.

Janice, daughter of Mrs. Eileen Sasser, was taken to a hospital with wounds about the face and throat but was removed from the critical list at noon Monday.

Deputy sheriff Val Baumgart said her assailant struck her on the side of the head with the blunt edge of the axe and then with the sharp edge across the forehead and again across the throat.

Salk Vaccine: Does It Work? Is It Safe?

Dead Polio Viruses Build Body's Defenses

Parents of five and six-year-old children have only two weeks to decide whether they will allow the youngsters to be inoculated by public health authorities with the new Salk anti-polio vaccine.

Two big questions will be in their minds: (1) Are the vaccinations safe; and (2) are they effective?

This is the first of two articles in answer to these questions.

BY R. O. MARRION

The Salk vaccine that will be given to almost 7,000 children in this area in a series of injections in April and May is as safe as modern science can make it.

From the record, so far, that's pretty safe.

Judging the safety of the vaccine involves understanding not only how it is made and handled, but what it does when it is injected into the body.

When germs or viruses attack a human body, they are met by an opposing army. The soldiers in this army are antibodies.

Antibodies are protein particles which, circulating in the blood, can combine with and conquer the invading germs or viruses. When an invasion begins, the body starts making appropriate antibodies—appropriate, because each kind of germ or virus has to be fought by a different kind of antibody.

If the antibodies are produced quickly enough, the invaders fail to secure a beachhead. If they aren't, the invaders gain the upper hand and their victories, temporary or permanent, mean illness or, at worst, death.

Once a human body has produced a specific kind of antibody, it usually is well prepared to produce the same sort of antibody again quickly and in volume. Its manning pools are established and ready to run.

Most people, by the time they reach their mid-teens, have already been invaded by three separate types of virus that can cause paralytic polio. In battles of which they may have been unaware, they have successfully produced armies of antibodies and gained immunity.

The purpose of the Salk vaccine is to create antibody armies in those who are not immune.

This it does, in safety, by introducing the enemy in considerable force, but already dead.

The body's sentries apparently don't know or don't care about the difference between a live enemy and a dead one. They sound the alarm, and recruiting begins.

Each child receiving the anti-polio vaccine will receive about 10 billion dead polio viruses, of all three paralyzing types, in each of three injections.

The first two injections will be a week apart and the third a month later. This is because the first two appear to alert the body and prepare it for quick action, and the third, the "booster" shot, really brings on maximum anti-body production.

All the Salk vaccine in Canada is made in the Connaught Laboratories in To-

Responsibility For Jobless Laid to Ottawa

BY RAY BAINES
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Unemployment is the responsibility of the federal government and is a matter "with which no provincial government can successfully cope," Labor Minister Lyle Wicks said in the legislature yesterday.

"The moral, financial and constitutional obligation clearly rests with Ottawa," the minister said, since the federal government controls credit and currency and the province is unable constitutionally to use its "limited financial resources" to alleviate unemployment.

He said that at the 1945 federal-provincial conference the Dominion proposed to accept "full responsibility for assistance to able-bodied unemployed persons."

This was "another Liberal pledge broken," he said.

But he assured the house the government "neither seeks to, nor does it evade its full share of responsibility in the matter."

He said the government had "bent over backwards" in providing unemployment assistance through timing public works to off-season periods and by curtailing overtime work in private industry.

Dealing with the Labor Relations Act, passed last year, the minister promised that "if mistakes were made" amendments will be introduced, possibly at the next session.

But he said during 1954 while there was a 11.13 per cent increase in time lost through strikes and lock-outs in all Canada, there was a 45.86 per cent decrease in British Columbia.

He listed "four significant events" which followed the new act: New regulations to assist in the functioning of the act; publication of Labor Relations Board decisions, merging of the LRB and Board of Industrial Relations, and appointment of Pen Baskin of the B.C. Federation of Labor to the LRB.

In outlining the functions of the LRB, Mr. Wicks said that before Social Credit took office, delay in processing applications for union certification caused "the bitterest criticism by organized labor." This had now disappeared.

There will be two night sittings a week in the provincial legislature until the end of the session. They will be on Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Helicopters Join Hunt For Fliers

WINNIPEG (CP)—Two helicopters landed Monday near the scattered wreckage of a United States Air Force Stratojet bomber in the rugged bush of northern Saskatchewan as ground parties and fliers continued the search for two American airmen, missing since the bomber blew up Saturday on an Arctic training flight.

Officials aboard the helicopters sought clues to the fate of Capt. Robert D. Dowdy, 31, and Capt. Thomas L. Pittman, 34, both of March Air Base, Riverside, Calif., and possible causes of the fire and explosion that sent the plane spinning to earth from 35,000 feet.

Chamber Chief Club Speaker

G. S. Thorvaldson, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, will address a joint meeting of the Victoria Kiwanis Club and the Victoria Chamber of Commerce at noon today in the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Thorvaldson has traveled 22,000 miles in Canada and the United States since he was elected four months ago to head the Canadian chamber.

He is now on a tour of British Columbia chambers, accompanied by Charles Bantock of Vancouver, manager of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and executive secretary of the B.C. chamber.

On Friday Mr. Thorvaldson will speak to up-Island chambers of commerce at Parksville.

Famed Movie-Maker Acquitted

Three Killed in Crash But Giesler Wins Again

(This is the second in a series on the fabulous career of California's best known criminal attorney, Jerry Giesler.)

BY ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—At 7.10 p.m. September 8, 1935, on a balmy night on the palm-tree-lined Pacific Coast Highway driven by movie director Busby Berkeley crashed into two other cars. Three person were killed.

After three trials, the famed movie-maker was acquitted.

JERRY GIESLER
. . . stars' defender

How did attorney Jerry Giesler accomplish this courtroom coup?

"First I had prominent witnesses, such as Pat O'Brien, testify Berkeley was not intoxicated when he left the cocktail party before the accident," said Giesler as he recalled the celebrated trial.

"I also had Warners' Studio make a model of the scene of the accident—telegraph poles, passing trucks, everything," and he picked up two of the toy cars which still sit on his office desk.

"I also put into evidence the first aerial picture used in court here, to show the entire route Berkeley traveled. I showed, with the models, what happens out."

Witnesses never agreed whether Berkeley's tire exploded before or after the crash, but "we got him off because the state failed to corroborate their testimony," the attorney said.

Similar dramatic touches sparked other Giesler trials.

SCHOOL GIRL IN PIGTAILS

In 1929 he defended showman Alexander Pantages on a charge he raped 17-year-old Eunice Pringle. The girl entered the courtroom "dressed like a schoolgirl, in pigtails," says Giesler. He got her to put on the rouge and sexy evening dress she wore on the fatal evening. Pantages was acquitted.

The district attorney in the 1943 Errol Flynn attack case tried the same pigtail trick on the pretty plaintiff, Peggy Satterlee.

"She looked extremely young that way," Giesler explained. "I had to develop the contention that she and her mother were trying to get material gain."

Virtue also played a part in the famous trial when actress Joan Barry accused Charlie Chaplin of transporting her to New York for immoral purposes.

"Now there was the strangest case of all," Giesler recalls. "There was the strongest feeling of prejudice against Chaplin. The corridors of the courthouse were crowded with women hissing. Not a friendly word, a friendly voice.

ATMOSPHERE CHANGES

"Then we went about to establish various things about this girl, her activities in Tulsa, the interest of her mother in getting money. The atmosphere began to get friendlier with Charlie. When the jury came in and he was acquitted, the crowd cheered.

"One episode that threw disbelief on the part of the jury was that she testifed she couldn't get into his house and so climbed up a ladder and hid in the hall with a gun.

HOW TO USE IT?

"Through this call I learned this girl and a man we contended was her sweetheart had gone to a mortuary and were jokingly pulling the sheets off the bodies. This would show her state of mind, but the problem arose, how could I get it into evidence?

"I had to fight throughout the trial, bringing up everything I could about this man in the hope the prosecution would call him as a witness. I was at my wits end.

"The district-attorney finally called the fellow, and that gave me the chance in cross examination. I went after him about the visit to the mortuary and that helped the case tremendously."

Accepting that anonymous phone call is one key to Giesler's success—he always is available.

SPOTLESS

No Sweetener

Jars of jam handed to every MLA did little to sweeten Mr. Wicks' concluding tirade against the CCF. He said socialism was "on the wane" and drew attention to the "surprisingly large Social Credit vote" recently in New Zealand.

Saskatchewan's CCF government used "union-breaking tactics" to solve a labor dispute in its own bus company and "jeopardized collective bargaining, lending support to anti-labor forces" by a cabinet decree, he said.

* * *

PLANS STILL SECRET

Premier W. A. C. Bennett refused to disclose his government's plans to meet the proposed federal veto of the $30,000,000 Kaiser dam but challanged Ottawa to come up with a better deal.

"If the federal government can work out a better deal for B.C. and Canada, then why don't they do it?" he asked.

The premier would not comment on the "ifs" of the legislation. He said when the federal veto is law B.C. will decide its next move.

* * *

The premier answered criticism on former finance minister Elnar Gunderson's appointment to the Bank of Commerce board of directors. The bank handles the province's cash business.

The premier said John Hart was director of the Bank of Commerce when he was speaker of the House and president of the PGE.

Premier Bennett said Mr. Gunderson was not a civil servant as was claimed in the House, or an MLA. He is vice-president of the PGE and economic advisor on federal-provincial relations.

'Free' Speech?

You have to fork out $100 for "free speech" when you attend a cabinet hearing, according to Gordon Gibson (Lib., Lillooet).

The champion of the small logger referred in the House to a recent appeal against the issuing of a forest management license to Empire Mills Co. He said he had had to pay $100 for a copy of the transcript of the appeal hearing.

"If you're going to charge everybody $100 to hear what they have to say you're certainly restricting free speech," he said.

* * *

"INTUITION"

B.C.'s Social Credit government owes its existence partly to "women's intuition," Premier Bennett said yesterday.

Commenting on a recent meeting the Cabinet held with the Provincial Council of Women, he said the government was "always glad to see the ladies."

He said men's political belief were rigid, but women's were more liberal—"with a small 'l'"—and the women intuitively changed to Social Credit.

CRAZY FOR CASH

The provincial government is "liquidating" the University of B.C. endowment lands for ready cash with its new land development program, Anthony Gargrave (CCF-Mackenzie) charged.

Mr. Gargrave said "boiler factories and jam factories" might spring up in the lands because "this government is crazy for ready cash."

He said it was "most improper" that the government should "renege on an endowment given almost 50 years ago."

URGES RESTRICTION

Immigration should be curtailed during periods of unemployment, Thomas Uphill (Ind. Fernie) said yesterday.

The redoubtable octogenerian charged that unemployed immigrants get priority on available jobs because the government doesn't want to feed them.

Garden Notes

Don't Overlook Peas in Plans

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

If there is one vegetable which should find a place in every garden, it is the pea, for unless you grow your own, you'll never know just how a dish of peas should taste.

Canned peas are pretty good. Fresh-frozen peas are even better, especially when they are rushed from field to freezer in a matter of a few hours. But no vegetable loses flavor so rapidly as the pea, and only home-grown, garden-fresh peas have the full quota of flavor, sugar and vitamins.

Fortunately for those of us who live on Vancouver Island, the pea is a cool-weather plant, and thrives all season in our climate. Elsewhere, peas can be grown only in the spring and the fall, as they will not tolerate the heat of our hinterland.

Any good garden soil will grow peas. If it was manured last fall, that is a big help, but if manuring is left until spring, only well-rotted stuff can be used, as the pea is allergic to the gasses given off by fresh manure.

Although the pea is a member of the legume family, and consequently absorbs some of its nourishment from the air, it is important to remember that it does not begin to do so until the plant is half grown, and a little assistance is required during the early life of the young plant.

SOAK OVERNIGHT

Probably the best way of getting the seeds off to a good start is to soak them overnight, just before sowing, in a nutrient solution, using any of the soluble fertilizers such as Hyponex, Rapid-Gro, Instant Vigoro or Old Gardener, at the rate of a teaspoonful in a quart of warm water.

Before sowing, it is a wise precaution to inoculate the drills with the friendly bacteria which feed the pea roots by manufacturing nitrogen out of the atmosphere. This "innoculant" comes in the form of a black powder, and can be bought at most seed stores for about 25 cents a tin.

Failing this, a few roots of the common clover, chopped into the soil along the rows, will serve the same purpose of establishing the beneficient bacteria.

As both the pea plant and its ally, the nitrogen-fixing bacteria, require a sweet soil, the pea rows should have a good dressing of garden lime, a cupful to the square yard, before sowing.

SHALLOW TRENCH

With dwarf peas, I like to make my sowings in a shallow trench, just the width of my spade, and a couple of inches deep. The seeds are put in individually, about an inch deep, and spaced two inches apart each way in the trench. If more than one trench is used, they are spaced two feet apart.

With tall peas, the trenches are three feet apart, and the seeds are sown in a double row nine inches apart. The space between the double row is occupied by the pea netting or a line of twiggy branches for support.

For the average family of five, about two pounds of seed should be ample, split between the tall and dwarf varieties, and sown in small lots every three weeks throughout the season to maintain a continuity of supply without gluts.

Empty Safe Blown Open

Police reported the company, operating at 540 John Street, had banked its money before cracksmen entered the premises Saturday night. The broken safe, its dial knocked off and tumblers punched out, was discovered by police Saturday midnight.

Raiders had more success in the Carpetorium, 1119 Vancouver Street, where $132 was taken from the cash box of an unlocked safe.

Police reported a man's suit and slacks were stolen by the thieves who entered the plant early Sunday by breaking a large plate-glass window.

An attempted break-in was reported by Saanich Lumber Yard, where a padlock was pried off an office door and a window smashed. Nothing was stolen.

HISTORIC GROUP

Oldest body of its kind in Canada, the Ontario Society of Artists was founded at Toronto in 1872.

Area Zoned Retail

Esquimalt By-Law Blocks Industry

It may be impossible to bring light industry into the central business section of Esquimalt because of a strict by-law which zones the section as a retail area.

Municipal council last night rejected a request from H. M. Gibson, owner of a hardware store at 895 Esquimalt, to open a small general repair shop at the rear of the store.

Municipal solicitor opposed the request because it would mean spot re-zoning.

"It might be that this gentleman intends something simple—like putting chains on bicycles," Reeve A. C. Wurtele said.

Councillor James Bryant said rejection would "stifle that kind of enterprise," but Clr. George Argyle pointed out that the man could buy, repair and sell a bicycle; he could not just repair one.

"If the wrong man gets hold of the business, it can ruin the entire area," he said.

WATER INADEQUATE

Council asked Yarrows Limited to negotiate with Victoria after the shipyard said its underwriters had advised that water supply was "inadequate for fire protection."

Yarrows wants a better sprinkler system but the underwriters advised against such action until the supply was improved and added "too many concerns draw from your water main before it passes your plant."

Council learned the main is being enlarged.

After council recently suggested expansion of Colville-Munro bus service after 8 p.m., B.C. Electric Company declined to act until Admirals Road is rebuilt.

Clr. Bryant said, "As soon as a new road is paved, they want to change as many routes as possible to it . . . they want the jam on it all the time."

OTHER DECISIONS

Other decisions were to ask the post office to begin mail service to the Parklands area, only part of the municipality without service; to receive a petition from 48 citizens opposing expansion of the Olde England Inn; to decide against a community recreation program under provincial government plans this year because of lack of funds and to reject sale of seven lots on Lampson and Colville, where sanitary garbage landfill is dumped, to Vickery Construction Company.

Lodge Chancellor To Visit Victoria

Harry F. Blackburn of Ioco, Grand Chancellor of the B.C. Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias, will visit Capital City Lodge 61 tonight.

Later in the month he will return here to visit the Far West Lodge 1 (Victoria) and Victory Lodge 63 (Sidney.)

The Order of the Knights of Pythias was founded in Washington, D.C., in 1864, and now embraces 3,000 lodges in Canada, the U.S. and Hawaii.

Cheats Death

Little five-year-old Chistine Jarl owes her life to the seven-hour effort made by doctors and nurses of the hospital in Owen Sound, Ont., to revive her after her heart stopped beating. Shortly after her tonsils were removed she showed signs of failing vigor. Rushed back into the operating room, doctors massaged her heart by hand, and continued a series of injections and oxygen treatments that in seven hours had her back to normal.

Gibson Hits License System

The legislative clock stopped Liberal allegations of irregularities in the B.C. forest management licensing system yesterday.

Gordon Gibson (Liberal, Lillooet) had been warmed by Premier W. A. C. Bennett to "be careful" when he launched into an attack on the licensing policy. But before he could develop an explanation, the mandatory adjournment hour struck.

The House rose at 6 p.m. to hear Mr. Gibson's continuing assault today.

Mr. Gibson told the assembly of an offer of $1,000,000 by two men for two-thirds of the timber in a forest management application area near Squamish. He mentioned no names.

The men offered $500,000 each for one-third of the timber applied for by Empire Mills Ltd. He said that during the appeal against the license by cabinet, the men were told to provide a bond for the money.

Later, forests minister Robert Sommers asked by letter for a certified cheque. The men offered to take over the timber under all conditions of a license.

One of the men was here last week, Mr. Gibson continued, prepared to give a cheque for $500,000, but he could not see the premier.

Mr. Gibson said he wondered if the man had gone to the wrong people or "if there is a way to give $500,000 to someone other than the government."

"Be careful," warned Mr. Bennett.

"Somebody paid something to somebody," said the Liberal member.

Mr. Bennett then demanded clarification.

"If the cap fits don't be embarrassed by wearing it," snapped Mr. Gibson.

Later Premier Bennett filed a direct "no" answer to a question on the order paper by Mr. Gibson asking if a decision had been reached on the appeal against the Empire Mills license.

After the sitting Mr. Sommers said the license was approved on the recommendation of the forest service. It had passed preliminary stages before the Social Credit government came into office.

He said two men, J. M. Dent of Squamish Towing and Buster Marks of B. and M. Logging, had not applied for a forest management license and had made no offer to the government before the appeal.

Dead Polio Viruses Strengthen Body's Defenses Against Attack

ronto, where its production is under rigid government control.

Virus for the vaccine is grown on monkey kidney tissue. It is harvested and purified, and it is killed by washing it in formaldehyde. It is killed beyond the smallest doubt. Its death and its purity is checked and re-checked.

Because the virus is dead it does not produce a mild case of polio. All it does is stimulate the production of antibodies.

As soon as the vaccine for British Columbia is produced, it will be airlifted here. Then, until it is used, it will be kept under refrigeration.

"I would not give the vaccine if I had the slightest doubt about its safety," said Dr. Jonas E. Salk, who developed it. His own children were among the first inoculated with it.

More than 650,000 people in the United States and Canada have received the vaccine without ill effects, according to B.C. public health authorities, who have obtained the still-rare vaccine at a cost of considerable effort and $65,000.

"No side effects other than those normally associated with immunizations in general have been reported," a public health publication adds.

The B.C. supply will be sufficient this spring for 42,000 children in the age group most often afflicted by polio—youngsters of Grade 1 and immediate pre-school age.

In the area served by Victoria-Esquimalt, Saanich, Oak Bay and naval health services, parents of these children must register and give their consent before March 1.

District schools, churches and PTAs will help circulate registration forms. Parents who fail to receive forms soon should telephone 4-0571 before the deadline date.

Fire Caused By Chimney

An overheated chimney was blamed by Saanich firemen for a fire yesterday at the home of E. A. Culbert, 1035 Jasmine.

Fire trucks responded about 3 p.m. to a call from a neighbor who saw flames leaping from woodwork around the chimney on the roof.

Mr. Culbert, who was home at the time, did not know of the blaze.

A fireman said that wood around the chimney from the basement to the roof was damaged.

Progress, with Caution

THREE times in the last decade the nations of the world have drawn back from the precipitating act which could only be followed by general war. Once it was at Berlin where Russian tactics went to the limits of Western patience. Once it was over Korea when United States troops approached the Manchurian border. What is called the Formosa dispute has furnished the third occasion, and in that Red China supplied the immediate provocation. The salient fact, however, is that nations both East and West backed away from the rising spectre of armed conflict. If now the Formosa affair can be back-tracked into the ordinary channels of negotiation there would ensue a period in which international tempers could cool off and the risk of provocative action thus be lessened.

What is being followed at the moment is in essence the British suggestion—that opposing forces in the Tachens area put 300 sea miles between each other. There has been an unwritten cease-fire, some withdrawal of Chinese Nationalist forces from the fortified islands inshore off the coast of China, and an earnest search in chancelleries for a means to bring about a more stable settlement of the dispute.

It is a pity that the Tachens were wrecked on the "scorched earth" plan in the evacuation. While doubtless Communist forces would have done the same, and most likely would have carried off everything portable into the bargain, the destruction of waterworks and a hospital will put ready-made propaganda into the hands of Peiping. A much smarter course would have been to leave such works standing, as proof that democracy has consistent regard for human welfare even while under intense provocation. However, it is done and cannot be recalled.

Looking forward, if suggested discussions outside of the United Nations succeed in bringing about a settlement in the China Sea—and in sober recoil from this near approach to the precipice that seems possible—this would remove the immediate hazard of the present situation. There would remain, however, the lessons to be absorbed from this most recent flare-up, and they are several. The United States and Red China alike have their resistance lines, and at one point they sharply conflict. Great Britain and India have been the intermediaries, and both have made extremely valuable contributions towards easing tension in the dispute. Finally, Russia has not dared to pour fuel on the latent conflict. These are facts to weigh.

Remove Tax on Stove Oil

ONE of the peculiarities of the British Columbia sales tax regulations is the distinction that is made between different kinds of fuel used for cooking purposes. If a householder cooks with wood or coal he escapes tax on the fuel. If he changes over to oil he has to pay the full 5 per cent tax on every gallon used, though there isn't a pin of difference between the purposes to which the two types of fuel are put. The simply doesn't make sense. Yet it was allowed to be written into the original sales tax act by the Coalition government and has been perpetuated ever since.

So long as this situation exists there is marked discrimination against the many thousands of householders who for one reason or another find it necessary or preferable to cook with oil. Dry wood suitable for kitchen stoves is not nearly as plentiful as it used to be. Oil is convenient and provides steady, easily regulated heat. The service is dependable, and use of oil in the kitchen requires little or no work on the part of the owner, according to the type of storage installation. For these reasons oil ranges are much favored by pensioners and other elderly people, many of whom could no longer cope with the work involved in keeping a coal and wool stove fueled. For them also an oil stove gives steady and comfortable warmth in the home, often the only warmth they are able to afford.

It was mainly on behalf of the elderly that Mr. George Tomlinson, a Social Credit member from the Mainland, introduced this subject in the legislature a few days ago. Oil for cook stoves is no longer cheap fuel; but from a pensioner's viewpoint no fuel is these days, and for many of them use of wood or coal is out of the question for physical reasons as well. An extra five cents tacked onto every dollar a pensioner has to squeeze out of meagre income to keep the kitchen stove going is a serious matter for him.

The idea of exempting wood and coal used for cooking is in keeping with the principle of not taxing essential food, but taxing cookstove oil used for precisely the same purpose certainly is not. As Mr. Tomlinson urged, the government should remove this contradiction as soon as possible.

An Archaic Arrangement

EXCEPT perhaps that it seems to be standard practice to divide veterans of both the world wars into separate compartments there is no excuse for making the old-timers suffer by comparison with their younger brethren. Almost it appears sometimes as though the elder veteran is not supposed to belong to the age in which he is still living, so marked are the differences in treatment meted out. There can be equalization of gratuity awards in respect to the two wars; 1918 was not 1945, but in the matter of continuing payments the scales should be equally balanced. Each group as of today has the same living circumstances to contend with.

The subject comes up again as a local Canadian Legion branch seeks some adjustment of money awards granted non-commissioned winners of certain decorations, such as the DCM, the CGM, etc. At present the holders who won their awards in the First World War are paid by the British government, while Canada takes care of the winners of the Second World War. Presumably this arrangement stems from pre-Statute of Westminster implications but its perpetuity at this late date is archaic. It also creates a monetary distinction since the British payments are made in sterling and currency exchange rates act against the older veteran.

The amounts paid to award winners are so paltry in any case—sixpence a day almost demeans a decoration—that Ottawa should not have the slightest hesitation in taking over the whole liability. Even if there are thousands of First World War decorated veterans still living the dent made in the national treasury would be small. It is not desirable that one hero should be appraised as of less value than another wearing the same decoration. Both served the same country, Canada, according to his military time. A touch of grace on the part of federal pension authorities could settle this matter without ado and bring a wrongful arrangement to a satisfactory end.

Interpreting the News

The President's Old Friend

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press Foreign News Analyst

ATTENTION attracted abroad by the suggestion that President Eisenhower pursue his old friendship with Marshal Zhukov is in some ways a measure of the world's state of mind.

Zhukov commanded the Russians at the capture of Berlin, became friendly with Eisenhower, and was instrumental in arranging the American commander's visit to Moscow. They have repeatedly expressed regard for each other.

* * *

Now Zhukov, as new minister of defense, has become an important figure in the Russian hierarchy with which the world is having so much trouble. The president indicated he would consider renewing an invitation, issued long ago, for Zhukov to visit the United States.

Foreign press comment seems to be all in favor of it, particularly in Britain.

The Russians have assumed the attitude that there would be nothing sensational about such a visit.

* * *

"Why not?" asked their ambassador to Washington, Georgi Zabrubin, fresh from the sensational Supreme Soviet meeting last week, and after Zhukov had said he would like it, but perhaps not right now.

* * *

Now Zhukov is not the man with whom Eisenhower could negotiate any lessening of international tensions. There is quite a strong possibility that his new job is primarily to frighten the Germans, to whom he is a mortal terror, out of the rearmament which the Kremlin already has been telling them will mean a new war.

For Zhukov to go traipsing off on an errand of sweetness and light right now might undo the propaganda value which his superiors expect to get from his appointment.

* * *

From President Eisenhower's standpoint, however, there might be something to gain and little to lose. He would be giving a demonstration that he, too, is ready to grasp at any peaceful-looking straw.

All such demonstrations are valuable in Europe and particularly so in Asia, where there is strong fear that America is not skillful enough to walk the tightrope of balance of power politics without stumbling into a world war.

"Ever listen to the radio, Comrade?"

Thinking Aloud

Gerald Waring

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

A FRIEND of mine, a Dickens enthusiast, said to me it was a pity that famous author couldn't see the movies made of some of his best known books.

He was not afeared Dickens might be offended; no, simply that he would be intrigued. That he would of course and open-eyed too I doubt not. It would startle any old-time writer to see with what skill, sometimes, film producers recreated his characters.

Shakespeare I fancy would be pleased, judging by films of his works I've seen—"Romeo and Juliet," "Hamlet" and "Henry V." Each was, is, a work of art, fully gracing the Shakespearean pen. The Bard is perhaps fortunate—if we except Orson Welles and his "Macbeth"—in that few producers attempt to put his plays on film with actors lacking the felicitous tongue.

"In this respect his majesty of language is left unspoiled, in fact it is likely to have been enhanced beyond his own day. A cult, if you like to call it, surrounds the delivery of Shakespearean blank verse and he who does not command its mastery seems wholly out of place.

I should think that modern actors of the Gielgud and Olivier school far outshine anything that Shakespeare heard himself at the Globe Theatre. He would be delighted too, surely, at the reverence we thus pay him, earned though it be.

* * *

Burns said that immortal thing about seeing ourselves as others see us but he would not be thinking of fictional creatures held up to a movie screen mirror. Incidentally I suppose it's the Burnsian tongue that prevents some of his characters being filmed.

All authors honored by moviedom would not applaud without reservation, naturally, nor all historical figures brought back to celluloid life. The fictional writer has small room for squirming, however, no matter how distorted he may think his plot has become. His readers may do it for him—it is always a moot point whether to see a film after having read the book—and anyway the writer takes what he calls literary license and so one must concede the same virtue to the movie maker. When only the title of a book is used, however, it does seem to be stretching the license rather far.

On the whole, however, remembering how prone we are to over-criticism of movies—being sated—most authors have been fairly respected. Many old well-known books in fact have been given life anew by being filmed, and there is the fact that, dubious or not, the screen portrayal fixes in many minds for all time an author's characters.

Historical figures of the past, having been real, may have more ticklish bones to pick with movie producers. But even if Napoleon might dissent from what has been done to him at times, and such individuals as Attila rub hypocritical hands together, they have at least one consolation. They have been given another heyday.

Dickens, at all events, returning to him by a circumlocution his familiar, would never dream that some day his Mr. Pickwick and Sam Weller would be on show in a place he probably never heard of; and I can imagine his ghostly shade being first in line to see what's going on.

Like them or leave them then motion pictures are, after all, one of the wonders of the age.

Reports from Ottawa

PARLIAMENT'S ineffectiveness in the face of government opposition or indifference was well demonstrated last week, the first week of "private members' days" since the session started.

All our elected representatives in the Commons except the ministers of the Crown are private members. Their days, so-called, consist of seven or eight Mondays and Wednesdays in each session when the government permits debate on assorted private members' resolutions to take precedence over government business.

On Monday the House debated a resolution of John Diefenbaker, the Tory member from Saskatchewan, which favored the enshrinement of a bill of rights in our constitution. On Wednesday it debated a proposal of R. R. Knight, a Socialist from Saskatchewan, that the federal government subsidize education.

Whips are off in such debate. Theoretically members may express their personal views without consideration of party obligations.

* * *

In practice it doesn't often work out that way. Certainly what happened last week didn't give much opportunity for impartial decisions on the merits of the proposals, what with ministers of the Crown leading into the debates to oppose the resolutions. Justice Minister Garson spoke against a bill of rights and State Secretary Pickersgill against the education aid proposal.

With such clear indication of the government's position, fewer Liberals would have voted for the resolutions than if the ministers had remained silent. But the government wouldn't even let the House vote on the resolutions. Both were "talked out" by Liberals—a too common parliamentary expedient of speaking right up to the closing hour so no time is left for a vote.

On the Knight resolution, the government doubtless believed that some Liberals would be politically embarrassed by voting against federal aid for education, so it chose to forestall a division.

The reason for talking out Diefenbaker's resolution was basically the same, but in the government's eyes there probably was more urgency in preventing a vote. The touchy subject of provincial rights is entwined in the problem of protecting individual rights. Some Liberals undoubtedly would have voted for the resolution, and if miraculously it had passed it might have embarrassed the government in its difficult relations with Premier Duplessis of Quebec.

* * *

Private members put dozens of resolutions before the Commons each year. Many are perennials. Diefenbaker, for instance, has introduced a bill of rights proposal five times in the last few years. It's never been voted on yet.

With so little time allotted to these resolutions and with talking out so common, few are debated, fewer reach a vote, and in the last six years only three have passed the Commons.

On Monday I thought Diefenbaker, CCF leader M. J. Coldwell and Dave Croll, the Toronto Liberal, built up a strong case for a bill of rights, and that Garson was more specious than convincing in his opposition. A genuinely free vote on the issue would have been illuminating, and would not have committed the government.

To make Parliament a more effective instrument for guiding the government, the Commons' rules committee might perform great service by calling for the abolition of the practice of talking out resolutions. Let Parliament voice the will of the people. That's what it's for.

The 'Work Break'

(From The Letter Review)

Sardonic comment on the "coffee break," which in the last 15 years has become a recognized, and expensive, feature of business life in North America, is the following item which appeared recently in Printer's Ink:

TO ALL EMPLOYEES

"Due to increased competition and a keen desire to remain in business, we find it necessary to institute a new policy. Effective immediately, we are asking that somewhere between starting time and quitting time, and without infringing too much on the time usually devoted to lunch period, coffee breaks, rest periods, story telling, ticket selling, golfing, auto racing, vacation planning and rehashing of yesterday's TV programs, that each employee endeavor to find some time that can be set aside and known as the 'work break.'

"To some this may seem a radical innovation, but we honestly believe the idea has great possibilities. It can conceivably be an aid to steady employment and it might also be a means of assuring regular pay cheques. While the adoption of the 'work break' plan is not compulsory, it is hoped that each employee will find enough time to give the plan a fair trial. It is hoped that those employees not in favor of adopting the 'work break' idea will have fully completed their vacation plans."

Soviet Shift Of Power

By J. G. HAYDEN, from Washington

THE reaction by the American government to the shift among Russian rulers was an intensive search for clues as to its effect on the two immediately crucial issues of mutual defense of Western Europe and the American-Chinese friction in the Strait of Formosa.

The impression from early canvassing of portents in the international heavens is that the initial impact might be helpful in relation to both these areas.

As to Europe, the added uncertainty regarding Soviet intentions could frighten the legislators of both France and Germany into subordination of their partisan bickering long enough to achieve final action on the pending mutual defense treaties.

Certainly the widely accepted theory that Malenkov has been put aside because he was too friendly to the world outside the Soviet is not going to strengthen the French and German elements who have been urging that Russia is ready for a friendly settlement if only the West will lay down its sword.

* * *

As to the Far East it is notable that, while the same session of the Supreme Soviet that received the Malenkov demotion notice listened to a bellicose speech by Foreign Minister Molotov on the Formosa situation, it was announced about the same time that Russia has suggested a seven-nation conference seeking settlement of this same issue. Further, it is conjectured that the Communist Chinese are at least likely to wait and see what may be the significance of the shake-up within the government of their all-important ally before doing anything that might kick off a major war.

The first supposition by all commentators was that Nikita Khrushchev, secretary-general of the Communist Party, had come out on top, just as did Josef Stalin, occupant of that position following the death of Nikolai Lenin. Scarcely had this conjecture been expressed, however, before it was seriously questioned by the announcement of Marshal Nikolai Bulganin as successor of Malenkov's former title of premier.

* * *

Especially, this wholly unexpected elevation of Bulganin sent a great thrill through foreign chancelleries because it suggested emergence of a military dictatorship, which many experts have been prophesying as the inevitable outcome of the post-Stalin struggle for power in the Communist world.

Actually, Bulganin got his title as field marshall not as a fighting soldier but as an ex-banker turned spy and vested with the job of keeping the military from challenging Stalin's dominance. Formerly head of the State Bank, Bulganin early in the Second World War became chief Communist commissar, attached to the army, with the purpose of seeing that there was no ideological deviation by the brass hats from the true faith, as laid down by Stalin.

It also is true, however, that since Stalin's death the Red army chiefs increasingly have appeared as factors in political life, with Bulganin frequently seeming to act as their figurehead in the Communist inner circle. Particularly, it was the military that took the lead in sending Lavrenti Beria to his doom in 1953, with the vital effect of removing the secret police from rivalry with the army as an instrument of compulsion in the field of governmental decisions.

* * *

Strange as it may sound, there is nothing that Western governments would like better than to see a military dictatorship emerge in Russia, the theory being that one could at least sit down and talk rationally with such a professional soldier, for instance, as Zhukov, top Russian commander in the Second World War.

In his book, "Crusade in Europe," President Eisenhower says that "one of the speculative reasons given for his (Zhukov's) virtual disappearance (shortly after the war) was his known friendship with me."

After sitting with Zhukov in many meetings in Berlin during the summer of 1945, Eisenhower expressed the utmost confidence that if American-Russian relations rested between himself and Zhukov a live-and-let-live peace could be attained.

* * *

While the appearance of Bulganin as titular head of the Russian government is by no means proof that militarists of the Zhukov type are rising to the top, there is ground for believing that the Russian army today is far more influential politically than ever before.

The reason above all others why Stalin was scared of Leon Trotsky was that he originally organized the Red Army. That military force then was in its infancy, but even so Stalin felt it essential to execute many of the top generals Trotsky had brought to power, including the great Marshal Mikhail Tukhachevski.

There is the circumstance further that since Beria's fall the half million or more secret police, used by Stalin to keep the army in leash, have largely disappeared as a factor in the race for political power.

Letters to the Editor

Bobby Helmets

Although your correspondent writes in a somewhat jocular strain under the above heading, it is heartening to know that he has given "serious consideration" to my letter and the logical conclusions arrived at therein.

Indeed, it is more than one might have expected from the somewhat giggly attitude adopted by him in dealing with this important subject. This goes to prove that sound reasoning and rational deductions cannot be brushed aside or killed by ridicule. The crime situation in the world today has a ghastly record and it behooves us to protect our brave police and firemen as much as possible; for they face grave dangers on our behalf.

If your correspondent would give as much "serious consideration" to the news items published in the press as he has given to my letter, he would learn that throughout the land the slugging of police with a club or the fist, or sticking him in the face, is of almost daily occurence. Crime is so steadily on the increase that I prophecy that, in a few short years, all law-abiding people will carry arms, under license, which they will not hesitate to use, in defense of life and property.

State Lottery

It is time Canada changed its lottery laws.

A state lottery is the best way devised for raising a large sum of money which may be used for national purposes, such as hospitals. In this way money that now leaves Canada every year for the Irish Sweepstake would then remain here for our own use. Thus taxes would ultimately be reduced.

Australia runs a state lottery for hospitals and its people are enthusiastic about the scheme, so why should not Canada, as a member of the Commonwealth of Nations, follow this wise example?

People who oppose lotteries think nothing of competing in bingo, radio contests, games of chance, raffles—often in connection with church bazaars, etc.—so where is the consistency?

Prohibition did not abolish drinking, for "fobidden fruit is always sweetest"! In the same manner, legislation against lotteries will never end gambling.

Prompt Work

I wish to convey my appreciation for the prompt response of the Esquimalt Fire Department and the efficient manner by which the fire at our property was brougt under control. I am sure that had it not been for this promptness considerable damage would have been done, if not complete loss of the property.

Ugly Word

Can we delete from the printed page the awful word (or name) "humanist"? Scientific "humanist" being positively indigestible. The latter is an opposed euphonism, the adjective being either unnecessary or in conflict with the questionable word to which I take exception.

Call me too late for breakfast but never a "humanist"! (Am I a lookist, washist, tea drinkist or bridgist? And husbands—are they gardenists, office workists, lovists or problemists?)). "Homo sapiens" by any other word would be more appetizing.

Poor Policy

It was somewhat of a pleasant surprise to see one of the many views taken by myself during my long residence in the Clayoquot area, atop the interesting article on Stubbs Island (Clayoquot), by Major Nicholson in February 6 magazine section.

The late Mr. W. T. Dawley, formerly of Stockham & Dawley, successors to Captain Penny, and a former storekeeper named Jacobsen, if my memory is correct, once told me that when Jacobsen arrived at Clayoquot (Clayoquaht) to start trading with the Indians, a gruesome sight greeted him. Along the extended sandspit, easily seen in the photo, there was a row of stakes with a human Indian head adorning the top of each stake. There had just been a bloody war between the West Coast tribes.

It pleased me much to see this article, and I wish to emphasize the fact that Clayoquot Sound, a wonderful and beautiful inland body of water, with hundreds of miles of shore line, is indeed one of the great potential playgrounds of our Pacific Coast. It is therefore of extreme importance that our Provincial [illegible] regulation to enable small portions of the shore line to be purchased, not leased, so that summer homes, camping grounds, holiday resorts, hunting cabins can be established on waterfront unsuitable for forestry purposes. There are hundreds of such sites between Tofino and Sidney Inlet.

A government member of the B.C. House recently stated in my hearing that the year-to-year leasing policy was adopted for the reason that if purchases were permitted, those purchasing would be demanding roads. To those who are familiar with that coast area, such a contention is utterly ridiculous. The sea is and will remain for a thousand years the only roadway. Major Nicholson and I agree completely on this point. We know whereof we speak.

Year-to-year leases, even these being extremely difficult to secure, provide no incentive for investment or development. There is ample room for industries, private and commercial undertakings in these vast areas.

Our hats are off to you Mr. Gaglardi for the sensible approach taken re increasing the speed limit to 60 mph on some highways.

In certain other areas where the limit is now 30 mph an upward revision is just as badly required.

Court of Revision Postpones Greenhouse Operators' Appeal

Appeal of the Vancouver Island Greenhouse Operators' Association against assessments on property of members, a sore point with the association because it feels its competitive position is being damaged, was postponed in Saanich court yesterday until 9.30 a.m. Friday.

Cases of the majority of other appellants heard by the court, mostly owners of homes and small parcels of land, were dismissed. The court reserved some decisions.

Reeve Joseph Casey, a member of the three-man court, told the large number of taxpayers appealing against this year's higher assessments that he did not anticipate municipal expenditures would rise this year. He said taxes will remain the same, despite the higher assessments, if expenditures are steady.

More appeals will be heard today in the CCF hall, Douglas Street. On Wednesday the court will sit in View Royal and Thursday and Friday will return to Saanich to hear the remainder of the 200 appeals listed.

Accused Admits Break-In at Machine Works

Bernard E. Bowcott, 26, was in police custody yesterday before discovery of a break-in which he subsequently admitted.

Bowcott was stopped on Bay Street early Monday when he was seen carrying a case of beer. Two wrenches, cigarettes and machine belt fasteners were also found on his person, police testified in court yesterday.

While Bowcott was being held for questioning, police found the Harjim Machine Works, 2500 Rock Bay Avenue, had been entered. The goods found on Bowcott were stolen.

Bowcott, with 12 previous convictions for breaking in and one for breaking out of jail pleaded guilty to a break-in in the machine shop theft when he was arraigned in court.

Magistrate H. C. Hall remanded him until February 16 for sentence.

Police reports showed the shop had been entered by breaking a window.

A quantity of gin had been drunk.

Roderick A. McLennan, 151 Michigan Street, was remanded in custody until today for sentence after being convicted by Esquimalt police court Magistrate H. C. Hall yesterday on a charge of assault upon Joseph Grandmaison, 840 Craigflower Road.

The magistrate noted that McLennan entered Grandmaison's home without invitation, refused to leave when first asked and struck Grandmaison twice.

McLennan told the court he was attempting to settle a small debt owned him by Grandmaison. During a scuffle as McLennan was being ushered from the dwelling, Grandmaison sustained broken glasses and pipe, and a bloodied nose, the court heard.

The magistrate told McLennan that it seemed "extraordinary you seemed to think you had a right" to do such a thing.

The magistrate ordered an adjournment to consider whether a fine would be suitable punishment.

Defense counsel was E. J. de St. Jorre. T. P. O'Grady was Esquimalt prosecutor.

Tightening of the law to protect Canadian broadcasters against the use, recording or reproduction of their programs without their consent was requested yesterday by the CBC. The problem was described to a royal commission studying Canada's copyright, patent and trademark legislation, as "urgent and acute" in Canada.

Britain Reported About To Embark On Revolutionary Phase of Defense

LONDON (CP) — Britain is expected to move into a new phase of defense this week.

The 1955-56 white paper — called the annual statement on defense — is to be published Thursday, and it is expected to be a document of almost revolutionary significance.

The Manchester Guardian says the paper may be to defense what the wartime report by Lord Beveridge, later [illegible] plan," was to social security.

The Sunday Times says the report, which outlines the pattern of defense expenditures for the coming year and acts as a prelude both to the three service estimates and the budget, will "mark a fundamental change in assessment of defense needs."

Observers predict the main emphasis will be on the building up of a powerful strategic bomber force, equipped with nuclear weapons. With guided [illegible] missiles under the control of vessels and minesweepers.

A smaller army will be advocated, including a highly-trained strategic reserve based in Britain. Little chance or reduction of overseas commitments is foreseen however.

On the naval side, it is predicted there will be restrictions on the building of capital ships and more emphasis on escort the RAF, it is argued, the air service now forms the first line of defense.

Civil defense may also be overhauled, with a national system planned to deal with widespread destruction by atomic bombs.

BRIER FINALISTS: At least eight provincial champions have been declared to contest the Macdonald's Brier Dominion curling championships at Regina next month. And, of course, there will be a new champion, Edmonton's Matt Baldwin having been eliminated in the Northern Alberta British Consols finals.

From British Columbia, it's Reg Stone of Trail, always a challenger for provincial honors and no newcomer to Macdonald's Brier play. Ray Stone will curl third rocks for the B.C. champion, Bus McGibney is second and Hunt McKay is the lead.

Alberta will try for a second straight win with Hugh Brown of Claresholm. The Southern Alberta champions defeated the Northern, Peace River and Yellowknife champions in order at Calgary on Saturday to take over from Baldwin.

Ontario will be represented by the Toronto Royal Canadian Curling Club four skipped by 58-year-old Andy Grant. He compiled a 6-1 record in the Consols final and is another battle-tried veteran.

ESTELLE COTE ... to brighten Brier

For the second time in 28 years, Quebec will be represented by a French-Canadian foursome, skipped by Olivier Samson of Quebec City's Jacques Cartier Curling Club. He had an 8-1 record in the provincial finals.

The Quebec rink, incidentally, will be accompanied by 19-year-old Estelle Cote, queen of Quebec City curlers and also queen of the 45-day Quebec winter carnival. She is the niece of Gaby Boivin, who curls second rocks for Samson.

"We want to show those Westerners what our French-Canadian girls are like," Boivin explained.

As the accompanying photo shows, Miss Cote does Quebec proud.

E. J. St. Pierre of Edmundston, undefeated in the provincial finals, will represent New Brunswick; Jerry Glintz, 37-year-old RCMP constable from Truro will carry Nova Scotia's hopes; the well-named Dr. Wendell MacDonald of Charlottetown, repeated as Prince Edward Island champion, and Newfoundland's entry will be the St. John's rink led by Norman Rockwell.

As far as is known, the Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Northern Ontario champions have yet to be declared.

* * *

ISLAND CHAMPIONSHIP: Entries are now being received for the Vancouver Island championship, scheduled for Duncan about mid-March. Each of the four Island clubs—Victoria, Alberni Valley, Duncan and Nanaimo—will declare two rinks to play in the final.

Play in the Victoria Curling Club eliminations is due to start Sunday. Up to last night, only Frank Peturrson's rink had made an official entry but there were reports that Tony Gutoski's Consols finalists would make a try for the title and that Eric Bullock will enter a strong rink.

There is no entry fee and Victoria eliminations will be conducted on a double knockout basis. Entries should be filed as soon as possible with Fred Madden, manager of the Victoria club.

* * *

A GOOD SHOW: Tony Gutoski missed in his first try to win the provincial British Consols finals but VCC members are justly proud of the showing made by the city rink, which included Kirby Moysey, Don Jamieson and Dick Pick.

Gutoski, a dark-horse entry as far as other finalists were concerned, earned their respect in his first two games and was a threat all the way, losing his chance by a matter of inches.

The Victoria rink turned in their poorest performance against Bill Croft of Summerland but was still one up coming home. Croft, a master at drawing, won it when he drew in with his last rock on the last end to count two.

Still in the fight, Gutoski just missed handing Milt Ryalls of Nelson his first defeat. Ryalls won by the odd rock, but only after a narrow miss in the 10th end, which allowed Ryalls to tie instead of becoming three down, turned the tide. At that, Gutoski's last shot was only an inch heavy from being the winner.

Out of it, the Victorians still went out and played the game as it should be played by handing Vancouver's Claire Miller his first loss, making it that much easier for Ryalls. Which is more than one Interior skip did. After being eliminated, he gave up against Ryalls after only five or six ends in a poor showing.

And a nod, too, to the results obtained by the other two Victoria rinks who entered the Kamloops bonspiel. Max Zabel's entry won nine and lost five and Glen Walkey's foursome won seven of 12 as both got into the prizes. Frank Peturrson, club president Jerry Lauder and Gordon Redford curled on Zabel's rink and Gar Taylor, Bill Johnson and Bob Boutilier were the other members of Walkey's rink.

Sunday's scores: Montreal 1 at New York 4, Toronto 3 at Boston 3, Detroit 5 at Chicago 1.

Next game, tonight: Detroit at Chicago.

Detroit Red Wings, pushing toward their seventh straight National Hockey League title, moved to within one point of the pace-setting Montreal Canadiens Sunday by downing Chicago, 5-1, at the Windy City.

While the New York Rangers were polishing off the Canadiens, 4-1, at New York, the Red Wings continued their late-season bid for the championship with veteran Ted Lindsay leading the attack with a goal and three assists.

FIGHT TO TIE

In Sunday's third NHL game, Boston Bruins scored three first-period goals but the Toronto Maple Leafs fought back with three unanswered goals in the third period to earn a 3-3 tie at Boston and hold their five-point lead over the fourth-place Bruins.

Lindsay's fine play and the goaltending of Glenn Hall highlighted the Detroit victory. Hall, playing his second game since being called up from Edmonton Flyers, held the opposition to one goal for the second straight night. But Hall was flown to Edmonton Monday to be at the bedside of his sick wife and regular goalie Terry Sawchuk, who was given a three-game rest, will return to the nets tonight when the Red Wings play at Chicago.

LINE CLICKS

At New York, the newly-formed line of leftwinger Danny Lewicki, centre Don Raleigh and Bill Ezinicki, who joined the club from Vancouver for Saturday night's game, provided the punch. Ezinicki fired the first goal, Lewicki picked up a goal and two assists and Raleigh had two assists while defenseman Bill Gadsby got the other two goals.

Rookie Brian Cullen led the Toronto uprising, assisting on Parker MacDonald's goal that made the score 3-2, and firing the tying marker with 97 seconds remaining. Ted Kennedy opened Toronto's comeback with a goal at the 14-second mark of the final period.

Goalies Weaken Under Fire

National Hockey League goalies have had a rough time of it this season and it's no wonder that their nerves become frayed and their tempers short with the constant pressure and menace of sticks and skates. Of the three goalies pictured here, only New York's Gump Worsley, extreme left, appears to have weathered the storm this season. Chicago's Al Rollins, centre, seems to have lost his job to rookie Hank Bassen after winning the leagues most valuable player award last year, while Detroit's Terry Sawchuk, above, was rested for two games. In addition, Sugar Jim Henry of Boston and Canadiens' Gerry McNeil have hung up their pads for good.

Ottawa Questions Big BEG Deficit

OTTAWA (CP)—The British Empire and Commonwealth Games Society and the federal finance department apparently do not agree on what are operating expenses.

The society has told the department it has a $155,000 operating deficit as a result of last summer's British Empire Games in Vancouver. It seeks an additional $50,000 federal contribution to help it out of the red.

A department official said Monday, however, "It is not clear to us that it is an operating deficit."

From a financial statement submitted by the society, it looked more like a capital expenditures deficit than an operating deficit.

The federal government, which has already contributed $200,000 toward the cost of the games, had been asked originally only to help meet any operations deficit that might appear. The society statement had "lumped together" both capital and operating expenditures.

The finance department, therefore, has informed society general chairman S. V. Smith in Vancouver that as things now stand, it cannot make any further contribution, but that it will be glad to look over any further society statements which might show an operating deficit.

The department official said details of the statement submitted by Mr. Smith would have to come from him, but indicated one federal objection to it was too high a write-off of capital expenditures such as the stadium.

KAMLOOPS (BUP) — The Reg Stone rink of Trail forced its way into the Dominion curling championships by eliminating the M. B. Ryalls foursome of Nelson in a best-of-three provincial curling final here early Sunday.

The cigar-smoking Stone's quartet defeated Ryalls 13-7 in the first round of the best-of-three final, dropped the second 11-10 but came back stronger than ever in the payoff round and was leading 14-7 in the 11th end when Ryalls conceded the match.

Barton Bradley Joins Cougars' Front Line

BY JIM TANG

When Victoria Cougars take the ice at Memorial Arena tomorrow night for an important Western Hockey League game against New Westminster Royals, they'll be bolstered by the addition of a new forward.

Lining up with the Cougars for the balance of the season is Barton Bradley, 24-year-old centreman who has been with the Royals this season.

Bradley, property of the Seattle Ironmen who dropped out of the WHL this season, is in his fourth WHL season. He started with Tacoma Rockets in the 1951-52 season, scoring 37 goals and passing for 39. With the same club the next season, he had 26 goals and 47 assists and was rated as one of the top centremen in the league.

FRACTURED KNEE

Moving to Seattle last season, he got away to a good start with 26 points in his first 27 games. Then he piled into the end boards at full speed and fractured a kneecap, the injury keeping him out of action for the balance of the season.

Moving to New Westminster this season along with several other Seattle players, Bradley has played some useful hockey for the Royals although he has not yet regained all his former speed. The Royals, expected to get another player before next Sunday's deadline, returned him to Seattle owner Frank Dotten and the Cougars grabbed him when given the chance.

"We have been looking for a replacement for Doug Anderson (out for the season with an ankle fracture) and we were glad to get Bradley," general manager Fred Hutchinson said last night. "And Bradley is happy at joining the club."

Bradley will work out with the Cougars this morning and take his place in the line-up tomorrow night. Just where coach Billy Reay will use him is in doubt, but he can play left wing as well as centre and will either replace defenseman Bill Bucyk on a wing or take Gene Achtymichuk's spot at centre with the latter moving to the wing.

Addition of Bradley brings the Cougars back to maximum strength. They didn't have to declare Wayne Brown, out since early season with a broken ankle, as one of their eligible players, but will have to let someone go if Brown recovers in time for action before the end of the season.

Meanwhile, Hutchinson discounted a report that the arrival of Lynn Patrick, general manager of the Boston Bruins, heralded a working agreement with the NHL club.

"We certainly haven't discussed it yet," Hutchinson said. "Lynn is on a scouting trip and is starting on the West Coast and working east."

However, an agreement between the two clubs appears a logical move, at least for the Cougars. Ties with the Montreal Canadiens, who have supplied player strength for the past six seasons, don't appear to be as strong as they were and as far as is known, only Walt Clune, Mickey Keating, Ed Dorohoy and Gene Achtymichuk of this season's club are owned by Canadiens. The Cougars own all other players except Bill Bucyk, on loan from Detroit. A new source of player supply would certainly be welcomed.

Soviet Olympic Bid Hinges on Skating

LONDON (AP) — The world speed skating championships — first big world event ever held in Soviet Russia—will be raced in Moscow's Dynamo Stadium Saturday and Sunday.

And if all goes well and the four-event championships go off without incident, the Soviets say they hope to stage dozens of other international meets of all kinds.

The ultimate aim is to impress Western athletic officials favorably so that the 1965 Olympic Games will be awarded to Russia. The games would probably be held near Moscow on a bend in the Moscow River where preparations for the construction of a big athletic area have already begun.

In the past two years, soccer players, skaters, track and field men, skiers, chess players and ice hockey teams have gone to Moscow from Scandinavia, the satellites, Britain, France and Germany.

But those visits have not been on anything like the scale of this week's world speed skating championships.

Even the Americans are going to this one.

Entries include practically all of the world rankers—Norway's great veteran Hjalmar Andersen; Sweden's new European champion Sigge Ericsson; Russia's two best, Boris Shilkov and Oleg Goncharenko; Japan's Takeji Asazakan and Yoshiyasu Gomi, and the United States' Don McDermott and Johnny Werkell.

They are the first American athletes to go to Moscow since before the Second World War. They are expected to do well in the sprints but are not considered serious challengers for world titles since the emphasis is on distance events.

Tommy Bolt's Two Birdies Carry Off Tucson Prize

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Tommy Bolt of Houston, Tex., calmly scored two birdies in a row to win the $10,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament with a 14-under-par 266 Sunday.

Bolt went into the final nine holes trailing young Bud Holscher by one stroke and being pressed from behind by Art Wall, Jr.

Bolt dropped his tee shot on the 160-yard 15th about 15 feet from the hole. He putted for a birdie. A fine approach on the 392-yard 16th when the pressure was greatest left him within putting distance of the hole. The ball went for a birdie. He won $2,000.

Holscher and Wall finished in a tie for second and collected $1,200 each on scores of 269.

Jerry Barber of Los Angeles came in with 64 on the final round for a total of 272, good for $800.

Tony Holguin of Midlothian, Ill., and Bob Rosburg of San Francisco were tied at 273. They earned $650 each.

Bolt clinched his second championship here when he dropped a 30-foot putt for an eagle three on the 18th hole to give him a five-under-par 65 for the last round.

Last night's scores: Drake Hotel 7, C & C Taxi 4; Nanaimo 7, Navy 4.
Next game, Friday: C & C Taxi vs. Nanaimo.

Navy missed a chance for a second-place finish in the Vancouver Island Amateur Hockey League at Memorial Arena last night by dropping a 7-4 decision to league champion Nanaimo as regular season play wound up with a Fan Appreciation Night.

Although 58 prizes were given away, including a 21-inch television set, only 1,991 fans turned up for the two games in which there was plenty of good hockey mixed in with some of the liveliest action of the season.

The Sailors only needed a tie against the Clippers to give them second place over C & C Taxi after the Taximen had dropped a 7-4 decision to last-place Drake Hotel in the opener. But Navy couldn't hold the up-Island crew in check last night. There was nothing but prestige at stake, as the playoff positions have long been settled.

SEMIS SET

Navy and the Taximen will open a best-of-three semi-final series at Memorial Arena Friday night while Clippers and Drakes open a similar series at Nanaimo Saturday night.

Nanaimo and Navy battled as if the league championship was at stake and the result was a hard-hitting, free-skating affair that was highlighted by a brawling third period. Referee Ross Valliere called six minor and two major penalties in the final frame and also awarded the Sailors a penalty shot when Nanaimo's Mel Gordeau pulled down scrappy Johnny Bond from behind.

Playing coach Red Carr and Navy captain Roy Bird tangled twice and Roy Derry and Joe Kemp of Nanaimo had a brief skirmish, but the fight honors for the night went to Gus McCarthy of Navy and Bud Dumont. McCarthy was on the receiving end of most of the punches thrown and was shaken up, but returned to the ice after a rest.

Bruce Cooke took the penalty shot but Nanaimo goalie Walt Davis managed to block it and the Sailors protested when Valliere failed to send Gordeau to the penalty box. Under amateur rules, a penalty must be handed out if the penalty shot is missed.

Clippers, who have several regulars out of action through injuries, played last night without rugged defenseman Bruno Farlan, who has a shoulder separation and will probably be out for the playoffs. But they were sharper on the attack and settled the issue in the second period when they scored three unanswered goals to take a 5-2 lead.

In the opener, Drakes made it two victories in a row and indicated that they plan to make it tough for Clippers in the playoffs with their deserved win over the Taximen.

The winners, getting solid goaltending from Don Hamilton, ran up a 5-1 lead in the second session after scoring the only goal of the first frame. John Makowsky got two goals for the winners and Don Ashbee matched the effort for the losers.

Canadian Spy Ring Analyzes Red Style

BY ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Note to the Kremlin: Canada has been spying on Russia.

A Canadian spy ring, its tentacles reaching into continental Europe, has been sending home secret reports on Soviet Russia's hockey team.

This was disclosed Monday by Richard (Red) Stapleford, formerly of Stratford, Ont., and a Londoner for more than 15 years. He established the spy network at the request of W. B. (Baldy) George, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

PLAYERS REPORT

The reports, now in the hands of the CAHA, were compiled from the findings of Continent-based Canadian players, who were quietly tipped off to keep an eye on Russian exhibition games.

Stapleford, who condensed the individual findings into one comprehensive report, says the consensus is: watch out for Czechoslovakia.

"The Czechs stack up as a better club, and seemed to ease up when they played against the Russians.

"Every Russian can play 60 minutes. They have some unorthodox tricks, but there are some characteristics that can be exploited."

Stapleford, who rates as probably the most hockey-wise Canadian in the United Kingdom and Europe, calls Penticton the "best Canadian team to come to the world championships for years and years—they can't lose."

Some more tips from the "spy" report:

"The Russians use short, high sticks. They play a short passing game with the emphasis on position. The wings never stray. The team doesn't forecheck.

"Their goalkeepers tend to come out, and rarely use their hands. They often fail to smother rebounds, letting the puck bounce back."

HEWITT READY

Hockey announcer Foster Hewitt of Toronto will broadcast the play-by-play description of the world championship game between Moscow Dynamos and Penticton Vs from Krefeld, Germany, March 6. It will be heard only over Toronto station CKFH.

The Vs, who arrived safely in Berlin last night, will meet a selected team of Canadians, Swedes and Germans in friendly games Wednesday and Friday.

The Penticton club will have brand new blazers "with the C-A-N-A-D-A big," thanks to Gerry Livingston, an Ontario sportsman who acted fast when he saw the Vs pass through Montreal wearing blazers with tiny Allan Cup emblems. The jackets will be specially made up and flown to Europe by next Wednesday.

Duncan Squad Faces Big Job

Individuals will carry a whopping 51-point lead into the second game of a two-game, total-point series for the Lower Island senior "B" men's basketball championship against Duncan in the S. J. Willis gym tonight at 8:45.

The Cleaners trounced the up-Island squad, 74-23, at Duncan last week.

In other games, Tillicums will meet St. Louis College midget boys at 7, and Gordon Head Service clashes with St. Louis College in a juvenile boys game at 7:45.

Downpour Ends Cricket Match

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — The four-day match between the touring English Marylebone Cricket Club and a Victoria State XI was abandoned today after rain made play impossible this morning.

Tropical storms saturated the ground and prevented play on the first, third and last days. On the second day, the MCC dismissed Victoria for 113 and then scored 90 for one in reply.

Sports Parade

BY OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—This is the week when Charles Norkus, an ex-Marine and an ex-playboy of pugilism, hopes to step up among such heavyweight championship aspirants as Nino Valdes, Don Cockell and Archie Moore.

It won't be easy. Because come Friday night in Madison Square Garden, Norkus will have to be eminently successful against the lancing fists of veteran Ezzard Charles.

And Ezzard has further championship designs himself.

This would seem almost improbable, because Charles has climbed through the ropes 13 times already with the title at stake. He had a pair of jousts with Rocky Marciano and one more apparently would serve only to give Rocky permanent possession.

"But when you're a fighter," Ezzard explains, "you always want to fight for the title. That's where the big money is."

* * *

Certainly the talent which is waiting for Marciano's semi-annual appearance doesn't exclude Ezzard. Nor, thinks Norkus, is it of a calibre which would legislate against a Norkus who puts the slug on Charles.

Particularly a new Norkus, which seems to be a mean appellation to hang on a husky young fellow of only 27 in an era wherein most of the challengers are old war horses. But Charlie had to change before he could get anywhere.

When he came out of the Marines, after winning the naval Olympic and North Atlantic heavyweight championships, Norkus embarked on a career patterned after that of madcap Maxie Baer. As a box fighter he was a grand artiste.

Charlie painted in oils.

Charlie took singing lessons to cultivate a tenor voice which rivaled that of Jack Doyle, the Irish Thrush, and his fighting was of the same limited calibre.

Charlie professed a delight in "beautiful dolls" and wanted to open a model agency.

* * *

Even in his first year, Norkus dropped both his fights. Then, in 1949, he was chopped down by one George Washington. Honest. His big league ambitions were riddled in 1950 when he was kayoed by Cesar Brion, the Argentine never-was, and Charlie was jolted to dreamland in 1951 by James J. Parker. The following year he lost his only two bouts.

The kindest thing said about him was that he was a "bum."

Then Charlie got married, announced that above anything in the world — except the heavyweight crown — he wanted a cauliflower ear to prove to himself that he was a good fighter, and now he has won eight out of his last nine.

He polished off Danny Nardico twice, reversed that Cesar Brion item, knocked out unbeaten Charley Powell, another of those "new Joe Louis" battlers, and in his last effort beat Roland la Starza.

Now it's Ezzard blocking his path and it's his biggest hurdle. If he wins it, Norkus will be knocking on the Marciano door right along with the rest of them.

Villa, Rovers Play To Draw

SHEFFIELD, England (Reuters) — Aston Villa and Doncaster Rovers played a scoreless tie Monday, completing seven hours of play between the two clubs in the fourth round of the Football Association Cup.

This was the third replay of the game and a thick haze which settled over the field forced a halt after the regulation 90 minutes. The referee decided it was too dark to play the half-hour overtime.

The fourth replay will be held on West Bromwich Albion's ground Tuesday to decide the right to meet Birmingham in the fifth round Saturday.

Headingley Wins

LEEDS, England (Reuters)—Headingley beat Dublin University 9-6 in a Rugby Union match here Monday.

Cougar Goalie Leads In Total of Shutouts

SEATTLE (BUP) — Bronco Horvath, Edmonton Flyer centre, moved 11 points ahead of second-place Gerry Couture of Calgary in the Western Hockey League scoring race last week.

Horvath regained the lead in goal scoring and now has 39 to add to his 41 assists for a total of 80 points.

That's just 22 short of a new league record and he has 16 games left to play.

Glenn Hall, Edmonton goalie who left the past week to play for Detroit, lowered his goals-against average to 2.74 per game to lead in this department.

Marcel Pelletier, Victoria Cougar goalie, scored his sixth shutout of the season to take the lead in whitewash jobs and is within one of tying the league record of seven shutouts in one season.

Only one shutout was registered during the last week and it was a scoreless tie between Edmonton and Victoria on Vic-

Fletcher Captures City Tenpin Crown

Jack Fletcher, who bowls for Dominion Meat in Gibson Bowladrome's Commercial Men's Tenpin League, took one title and shared another Sunday in the windup of the annual Greater Victoria Tenpin Bowling Association city championships at Gibson's.

Fletcher, who had a handicap of 69, won the singles crown with games of 189, 182, 184 for a 624 total. Fletcher then paired with Stan Hulford to share doubles honors with the combination of Gordy Bamford and Barney Barnswell, each with 1,166 totals.

Eric Badminton won the all-events competition with series of 632, 530 and 507 for a 1,931 total which included a 162 handicap. Fletcher was runner-up with a nine-game total of 1,790.

National Motors, also of Gibson's Commercial League, won the team championship last week end to give Commercial League bowlers a clean sweep.

Taking Turns

Gunnar Nielsen, shown as he set the world's indoor mile record of 4.03.6, went down to a humiliating half-lap defeat Saturday night at the hands of little Fred Dwyer, shown wrestling in the background with Wes Santee. Dwyer won the Baxter Mile in New York Saturday in 4.06.2, and said afterward that Santee, who finished far back, was "burned out" and would be no more threat this season.

Fleming, Kerr Tied Up in Medal Golf

Bob Fleming, who won the first series of monthly medal competitions, gained a tie for the second series lead with Laurie Kerr of Colwood Sunday when he fired a second-round, three-under-par 69 at the Gorge Vale Golf Club.

Fleming, who shot a first-round 78 and was six strokes behind Kerr going into Sunday's play, made up the deficit with his fine round which included four birdies and a bogie. The Colwood swinger slipped to a 75, giving both golfers a 36-hole total of 147.

Gorge Vale golfers won all four prizes with John Merriman coming in with a 72 to finish second to his clubmate. Dave Fanthorpe took low net honors with a 74-4—70, and John Carlow was runner-up in that department with a 78-7—71.

Scores were high as the golfers found the going a bit heavy and only four came in with 75 or under. George Andrews, Hugh Morrison and Vic Painter all recorded 76's with with 150, and Painter fourth with 151.

Wests Out of Running After Loss to Woods

Victoria West, which won the Victoria and District Football League's Jackson Cup competition last year, was eliminated from this season's play Sunday when it dropped a 6-3 decision to Wood Motors of the second division at Heywood Avenue Park.

The Greenshirts, who hold down last place in the first division, held a 3-1 half-time lead, but the explosive Wood Motors squad rattled in five unanswered goals in the second half to post its second straight victory and enter the semi-finals.

Other clubs in the semi-finals are Esquimalt and JBAA, both of the first division. The remaining semi-final berth will be filled when Heaneys of the first division tangle with Canadian Scottish, the only other second division club still in the running, Sunday at Haywood Avenue Park.

PILE UP LEAD

Charlie Mills put Wests into the lead early in the first half but Charlie Hall equalized for the Motormen before Chuck Forester and George Brown fired two goals for the Greenshirt's half-time lead.

Archie Taylor and Wallie Milligan sparked the second-half come back. Taylor made it 3-2 in the first three minutes, Milligan squared matters on a penalty kick and Taylor scored what proved to be the winner on a well-placed header. Tom Ewing and Milligan finished off the scoring to put the issue beyond a doubt.

Esquimalt and JBAA will meet in a semi-final match Saturday at Royal Athletic Park. Both week-end games start at 3 p.m.

Workouts Start For YMCA Squad

The YMCA track and field team will start spring workouts at the Y tonight at 8 but for the first three weeks films on various forms of track and field will be shown.

While under arrest for the first offense it was found that his license had expired last month and the one he was using had a forged name.

Jongerhuis told the court the license belonged to his brother and that he had altered the name and used it himself. Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts fined him $25 and costs and ordered the license destroyed.

CASE DISMISSED

The magistrate dismissed a charge of disturbing the peace against Gerald Thompson.

"It's apparent that Thompson was just defending himself," said Magistrate Beevor-Potts.

A speeding charge against Harry Gregson of West Vancouver was heard although the accused was not in court.

False Teeth Need A Special Cleanser

Don't Brush Your Plates! Soak Them in Polident As Dentists Suggest

Polident is the recommended way to clean dentures, banish Denture Breath. Just follow these easy rules.

1. Never use a brush on them! Your dental plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.

2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath."

3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only. Polident! Polident does not scratch, discolor or wear plates. Less than one number No. 12 cutting in handling of many plates. Polident gets where a brush can't reach.

Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser, Polident, at your drug counter. [illegible]

Ucluelet Man Says Road Main Need

Construction of the proposed road between Port Alberni and Tofino will open up the West Coast of Vancouver Island to both new residents and tourists, declared Ron Matterson, chairman of the Ucluelet village commission last night.

In addition it would mean that West Coast fish could be in Vancouver markets 24 hours after they had been hauled aboard the trollers.

MAIN PROBLEM

One of the main problems facing the West Coast residents today is that of getting their fish to market, he said. Packers with a crew of five sometimes have to make the long journey to the canneries with only one ton of fish.

If the road was built 30-ton trawlers could be used at costs of 2½ cents a pound compared with the present 5 cents a pound.

The road would also mean that tourists could get to Long Beach, described by Mr. Matterson as "the best beach in Canada."

GROWING

"The area is growing," said Mr. Matterson. "We'll need more schoolrooms and teachers next year."

Mr. Matterson who is representing the chamber of commerce will meet with Mr. Craig Laird and other Island chamber men to discuss the road situation today.

Fishing Resort Robbed

CAMPBELL RIVER—Police are searching for thieves who broke into Salmon River Lodge, Kelsey Bay, and got away with more than $80 in cash during the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Len Harding, managers of the lodge, heard a noise early Sunday morning and apparently frightened the thieves away when they went to investigate.

Entry was gained through a window.

Later in the day members of the RCMP detachment here together with Constable Ian Hall of Parksville and the RCMP dog "Rip" investigated the crime.

DOG FAILS

Rip was unable to pick up the scent but car tracks were found and it is thought the thieves may have come from somewhere in the district.

The investigation is continuing.

CHEMAINUS—The home of a lumber company fireman's helper was gutted and valuable heirlooms lost Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Ron Ruff and their three children Sandra, 8, Maureen, 4, and Christine, 2½, were visiting friends in Duncan when the fire was discovered by a neighbor, Mrs. Gordon Ridgeway.

Mr. Ridgeway, fearing members of the Ruff family might be trapped in the [illegible] fire and smoke to check the bedrooms. He was not seriously burned.

Chemainus volunteer firemen, tapping the Ridgeway reservoir, poured 1,500 gallons on the flames in 10 minutes. They were able to save valuable furniture and a deep freeze unit with the use of protective hose-pipes suits for.

Mr. Ruff is employed at the McMillan Bloedel co-mill he purchased the home through DVA only last September.

Collections are being made through various agencies including the Legion Poppy Committee, IODE, Red Cross and the company employing Mr. Ruff, to help re-establish the family.

The home was only partially protected by insurance.

'Watch the Headlines,' Says Mayor

Rats Invade Reading Rooms Of Nanaimo Branch Library

NANAIMO—Plea for new quarters for the Nanaimo branch library was made last night because the present building on Wallace Street was said to be menaced by rats.

The plea was made in the report to council by George [illegible] of the Vancouver Island Regional Library Board and Nanaimo city representative on the board.

"Watch for the headlines tomorrow," commented Mayor George Muir after the report was read.

Mr. Darling told council rats had been prevalent in the basement quarters which formerly housed the headquarters for the regional library. The rats have also invaded the upstairs quarters, however.

Acquisition of the fine new building for the headquarters does nothing to enhance the quarters left for the branch library, he said.

"Time has come when we must give [illegible] to a new building," Mr. Darling told council.

Some 80 children attend the Saturday morning story he continued. Serious efforts are being made to control the rats in order that the basement can be used for these story periods.

Alderman Gertrude Hall said an earnest endeavor should be made to find some solution for a library building for the city.

"I should hate to see the necessity of a Pied Piper here," she said.

Esquimalt Approves Reconstruction Of Admirals Road to 40-Foot Width

Detailed plans for rebuilding of crumbling Admirals Road at a cost of $154,700, more than 50 per cent above original estimates, will be sent to Ottawa within a week after winning approval from Esquimalt municipal council last night.

The plans prepared by municipal engineer John Graeme over a period of several months after Ottawa agreed to pay 75 per cent of the cost include all services but "no frills," Reeve A. C. Wortele said.

MAJOR POINTS

Major points in the Admirals Road project are:

1. A 40-foot road from Esquimalt to the municipal boundary.

2. Acquisition of a five-foot strip of property on the east side of Esquimalt Road to a jog south of Woodway Road.

3. Five-foot sidewalks on both sides from Esquimalt Road to Colville Road and on the north side from Colville to the boundary.

4. Adequate storm drainage to meet maximum development of the Parklands and adjacent areas.

5. Rebuilding of the intersection at the main gate of HMCS Naden and Colville Road.

Main expenses would be paying $27,500 excavation, $21,000 and curbs and gutters, $19,000.

Under the 75-25 split the department of national defense would pay $116,025, Esquimalt $38,675.

SEWER EXTENSION

Municipal expense will increase through the engineer's recommendation that $13,500 be spent to extend the sewer system along Admirals to the boundary.

Preliminary estimate of $14,000 was first mentioned two years ago the reeve said, when discussions included a 28-foot road, only one sidewalk and did not include drainage.

"I think the council should insist that when the road is done it be done in a first-class way," the reeve said. "I am sure the department wants a first-class road. A 40-foot road with two sidewalks is absolutely essential."

TRAFFIC HAZARD

The reeve added that the entrance to HMCS Naden must be improved because of the "very dangerous traffic hazard."

The department of national defense agreed to pay 75 per cent of the cost, providing it approves plans, after council early last year suggested that the road be closed to heavy military vehicles because of the severe damage they cause.

Short-Term Scheme Favored

Keep School Costs to Essentials Voters Advise Saanich Trustees

A short-term scheme to meet nothing but essential requirements of School District 63 (Saanich) not to extend beyond three years was favored last night at a meeting of electors of that district.

[illegible] to solve school overcrowding.

Ratepayers turned down a $1,500,000 long-term school building referendum last year and last night, for the first time in B.C.'s school history, a board of school trustees met its electors seeking direct instruction.

Nearly 200 from various or[illegible] attended the meeting at Keating School and [illegible] to [illegible] sense of the [illegible] expressed.

FAVOR BUILDING

Where [illegible] favor early expansion to do so as schools cannot be built for modern up-to-date [illegible] Some of adding [illegible] on the existing [illegible] what to do next [illegible] to solve school overcrowding.

Ratepayers don't seem to [illegible] costs of both projects and they have seen the new [illegible] of assessment and [illegible] of formulas tested.

3. The root of the school question is the method of raising money. Another form of taxation either federal or provincial—is necessary.

4. There are too many frills in the schools.

First to speak from the audience was Barry Rikard of Cordova Bay, who warned [illegible] Times in Saanich. We don't [illegible] taxes," he said. He called for an entirely new basis of school financing.

BETTER CHANCE

"A short-term by-law has a better chance of passing," George Batterbury of Cordova Bay said. "It is far better to get something than to aim high and get nothing."

In rural areas [illegible] North Saanich you have to depend on the farmer to pay for taxes," W. Vernon said.

"Agriculture today is facing a depression," he warned. "Income has gone down 30 per cent. How are we in a position to vote on a by-law when we are not in a position to pay more taxes?

"I know the short-term project is more expensive but that is the only one I can support," he added.

Another ratepayer wanted to get down to basic figures and find out exactly how much new [illegible] would cost. He was told by C. L. Chatterton, chairman of the board, by-law committee, that this was not possible yet as the mill rate had not been set.

COST CITED

Asked to know how the $1,500,000 for school construction was reckoned in the last by-law, Mr. Chatterton explained that a single classroom cost approximately $15,000.

This brought about a lengthy discussion on frills.

Before closing the meeting for discussion Mr. Chatterton explained that the school board, before drawing up a new by-law wanted to try and find out what the people would like and what they would support in a vote.

Total school population in the district, he said, is a little over 1,600 and is increasing by 176 a year.

By September 1955 nine classrooms will be needed, he said. Another eight classrooms will be needed in 1956 and another five in 1957.

Riflemen Due Here In June

By the end of June, the 2nd Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, probably will be in barracks at Gordon Head, swelling to its highest peacetime strength the garrison here.

The battalion will be relieved of duties in Korea by mid-April, and is expected to concentrate at Gordon Head late in June.

The 1st Battalion Black Watch of Canada will leave for service in Korea this month, to replace the QORs.

It will be the 13th Canadian infantry battalion to serve in the Far East.

Some of the QORs will return to Canada early in April, but there will be a general 60-day leave plus traveling time for the whole battalion before it starts training at Gordon Head.

Army officials report renovations to the camp are nearly completed.

Brig. George Kitching, B.C. area commander in Victoria last week said he was looking forward to the arrival of the riflemen a particularly colorful unit.

Langford Man Appeals Sentence

Notice of appeal from sentence of six months' imprisonment, concurrent on two charges, was filed in appeal court yesterday for Eric William Chasko of Langford, by counsel John McConnell.

It is claimed the sentence is excessive.

Chasko was sentenced in Saanich court for receiving stolen goods and in Oak Bay for theft of goods valued at less than $25.

Intermunicipal Meeting Makes Progress Toward Library Pact

Recent stories of released prisoners of war who couldn't sleep on their return to home because of too soft beds brings to mind a recent conversation with Peter F. Siegel, a psychologist retained as consultant for the sleep foundation of a bed making mattress firm. A lot of reof the body, be firm but still resilient and not like a board.

Getting children into good sleep habits begins with the right mattress and this should be firm but resilient, too. If shoved fit tight against the sides of the bed or crib so that it will not wiggle. Wrapping the

Relaxation can be disturbed by noise and internal and external stimuli to the brain. There must be pressure on the bladder, noises, smells and sounds that are unfamiliar and contribute to restlessness. A mattress that is bumpy or too soft or that causes you to twist and turn is a poor one. It should move with the pressure

BY ROY PARRETT

Pretty Gisele MacKenzie, a Canadian singer who made good on American television, may soon have a show of her own. CBS-TV has plans for the Winnipeg-born star who can sing, dance and act.

Gisele's recent appearance as Jack Benny's guest on CBS, prompted the idea. Her performance was a "spectacular," all by herself.

Gisele's versatility is amazing. She never danced professionally before accepting her present assignment on the Saturday night Hit Parade. But one of the hit tunes required a dance routine, so the sweet-voiced singer became a dancer, and overnight, too.

Canada can be justly proud of Gisele, who is headed right for the top in the entertainment world, and who got there by ability alone.

A Vancouver soprano, Wendy Martin, may well be destined to become a big-name TV star also. She is one of the contestants on the CBC's talent discovery program Pick the Stars, tonight.

The program will be seen on local screens, via CBUT, at 9 p.m.

Other hopefuls include a concert pianist from Toronto, a trampolene duo from Hamilton, a Niagara Falls Quartet, and a Toronto "pops" singer.

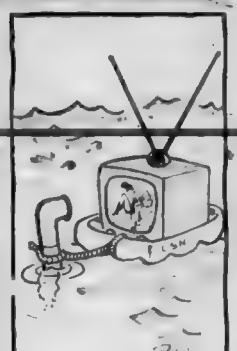
If you have been wondering about the present situation in the Far East, tune in Edward R. Murrow at 7.30 tonight on channel 11. The ace newscaster is going to discuss the Formosa situation and present on-the-spot interviews with people who know best what is happening there.



KCTS, channel 9, presents a number—of educational broadcasts, beginning at 7 this evening. A visit to the Metropolitan Museum in New York is scheduled for 8, and a program of concert music for 8.30.

Merle Oberon and Joseph Cotton star in "Lydia" on Candlelight Theatre at 9.30, on KVOS-TV.

The Late Show on KTNT-TV, at 10.45 is "Suspense," starring Barry Sullivan.

Bulldog Drummond is a busy man on local screens tonight. He solves a couple of tough ones on both KING-TV and KOMO-TV at the same time.

John Barrymore, Sr., is seen as the great detective on Bulldog Drummond Comes Back," at 10.45 on KING-TV.

Tom Conway and June Vincent star in the KOMO-TV Bulldog Drummond adventure "The Challenge," about hidden gold and sailing ships, at 11.

The bidding

SOUTH	WEST	NORTH	EAST
2 ♢	Pass	2 N.T.	Pass
3 ♢	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
3 N.T.	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
5 ♢	All pass

Here is a hand where you must admire North's bidding and South's play. Having indicated his weak hand by his two no-trump response to the two bid, South showed the spades and then quite correctly refused to let the hand play at three no-trump but carried on to four spades where there was at least some possibility of his winning some tricks. South's three no-trump bid was highly dubious for unless the diamond suit can be brought home with no more than two losers the opponents will most likely be able to defeat three no-trump. There are five diamonds would seem to be the logical bid. South was fortunate that his partner did not let the three no-trump contract stand for the defenders could win two diamonds and four spade tricks.

Against the five-diamond contract West opened the jack of hearts. South won and cashed the ace of diamonds. Now the normal if thoughtless next play is to lead the lack of diamonds. West would win the trick with the king and later East would get the ace. Two tricks with the queen and nine.

Correct play from the start hand is to lead a low diamond at the second lead of the suit. If the suit splits it will not matter that the opponents are able to win the second lead except that the king and queen will fall together on the next lead. But if the suit breaks four-two as it did South's correct course to escape three diamond losers is to find one of the opponents with a doubleton honor. South made the right play of a low diamond and made his game contract.

Early Warning System Enough for Canada To Handle at Moment, Says St. Laurent

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Monday Canada cannot take on new defense commitments now.

He was replying to opposition questions after reporting to the Commons on the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London earlier this month.

John Diefenbaker, foreign affairs spokesman for the Conservatives, asked about press reports of the conference which had referred to a "more equitable distribution in defense efforts" among the Commonwealth members.

Mr. St. Laurent said he had told the other prime ministers that "developments in thermonuclear weapons and in the method of delivery had brought home to us the need of providing a warning system . . . largely on Canadian territory.

"We felt that it was necessary to have that early warning system as one of the components of the deterrent effect of these weapons so that any potential enemy would realize that even a surprise attack would not make retaliation impossible," he said.

ADDED BURDEN

"This would place a heavy load on the Canadian people; a large part of the costs would be paid by the U.S., but Canada must play her part.

He said he told the conference the Canadian and American people wanted to maintain "a proper balance . . . between what we were doing in Europe and what was being done on our own continent . . ." there were limits, he said, beyond which Canada could not go, and "I did not think we were in a position where we could take on additional commitments."

COMMONWEALTH RESERVE

Mr. Diefenbaker said it had been suggested Canada contribute forces to a strategic Commonwealth reserve.

Mr. St. Laurent said he had told the conference that Canada had troops and that Australia and New Zealand had agreed to give one division for service outside their countries. He asked whether Mr. St. Laurent had taken a stand against this on behalf of Canada.

The prime minister said: ". . . I do not remember anything that would justify the statement that we took a stand against what was being done by others."

WASTING ASSET

Earlier, in his report on the conference, the prime minister said:

"While the superiority of the Western world in nuclear weapons now is probably our most important single deterrent against war, nevertheless, we recognize that this is a wasting asset and that peace must ultimately rest on a better and most lasting foundation."

Portable X-Ray Unit Aiding Plant Workers

A portable X-ray unit on loan from the provincial government is being used by the Victoria-Esquimalt and Saanich health department to look for tuberculosis among thousands of workers in industrial plants and commercial and government offices.

Operated by Grant Kokeid, the unit has recently visited HMCS Naden and HMC Dockyard, the legislative buildings and CNR offices, and is now at the T. Eaton Company store.

Office workers in the Belmont Building will get attention next, then school board staff and Victoria and Esquimalt high school students.

Visits of the portable unit to plants and offices save time of employees, city public health authorities said yesterday, and also result in early detection of disease.

Guild Comedy Well Received By Audience

A murder comedy with a surprise ending won more than the usual amount of laughter when "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse" was presented by the Victoria Theatre Guild at the Langham Court Theatre last night.

The play, directed by Len Lauk, will be seen at 8.15 p.m. all this week.

Audience laughed loudest at Bert Williams, as Pal Green, and applauded leading members, Don Ross, as the doctor, Stan Wade, as Benny Kellerman, Elizabeth Knight, as Daisy, and Connie Thompson, as nurse Ann.

PEMBROKE, Ont. (CP)—Two-year-old Evelyn Beauchamp was burned to death Monday in a fire in her home. Two other young children of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Beauchamp were carried to safety by an unidentified passerby. The parents were out of the house.

Control of Weather Means World Control

The nation that can control the weather controls the world, meteorologist William Mackie told Victoria Gyro Club yesterday.

Such controls could provide floods, snowstorms and freezing temperatures to hinder an enemy in battle, Mr. Mackie said.

The chief weatherman of the Victoria meteorological office expressed a hope weather control will remain, as at present, in the hands of a "higher State."

He reviewed for the club progress in precipitation production, stating that clouds are still essential.

Experiments in the U.S. in 1946-47 by experts seeding clouds with dry ice dropped from aircraft showed three results: dissipation of clouds, precipitation of clouds, and a lengthening of cloud life.

Evaluation of these experiments proved disappointing economically, Mr. Mackie said.

Awaited now are results of new experiments on the Cana- of private companies, he added.

Negro Chiefs Seized

Police Surround Native Quarter

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (Reuters) — Thirty members of the African National Congress were arrested in the Sophiatown native quarter here Monday night, a few hours before the second transfer of Negro families from the district to a new segregated township outside the city was due to begin.

Robert Resha, secretary of the congress' Transvaal branch, said the arrested persons were congress volunteers engaged in assisting families that have received eviction notices but wish to remain in Sophiatown.

Police closed in and arrested the 30 as they called at seven homes in the district, Resha said. The volunteers were seeking to help families move from their doomed homes into other quarters in Sophiatown, instead of being shifted by the government to Meadowlands, the government's new resettlement township, 10 miles outside the city.

Rsha said a cordon of police had been placed around all houses from which 150 families were scheduled to be moved before dawn. "No one was allowed to go near the houses," he declared.

He said there were no incidents during the arrests.

Resha himself was arrested a week ago for allegedly violating a government order prohibiting assemblies during the first stages of the compulsory removal program, but was released within 24 hours.

HOMES SCRAPPED

The government has already evicted 150 families and started to demolish their homes. A new, all-white suburb eventually is planned on the Sophiatown site.

About 50 of the families evicted last week moved into other quarters in the district, while the remainder were transported by a fleet of government trucks to their new homes at Meadowlands. The removal program has been bitterly condemned by the African congress and many church leaders in this country.

Ultimately, about 70,000 natives are due to be moved by the government from Johannesburg districts to Meadowlands, in the biggest mass transfer of population in South Africa's history.

Third Trial Begins

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Circus-worker Lawrence Vincent made legal history in British Columbia yesterday when he appeared at the assize court here for his third trial on the same murder charge.

Vincent, alias Aaron Hinton, was charged with the shoelace strangulation of 12-year-old Donna Lee Corbett of Quesnel on September 12, 1953.

He was convicted last summer and sentenced to be hanged. On appeal, he was granted a second trial but the jury failed to agree on a verdict and a third trial was ordered.

Defense counsel Raymond Hughes yesterday won the judge's approval to suppress from evidence two police pictures of the victim's body. Mr. Justice Wendell B. Farris held that the photographs could "inflame" the jury by their "horribleness."

PRINCESS MARGARET

Now at St. John's

Gay Princess Continues Tour

ST. JOHN'S, Antigua (Reuters)—Princess Margaret arrived at this "rum-and-arrowroot" Caribbean island Monday on a royal barge which edged into the harbor between sloops and fishing boats festooned with Union Jacks.

The princess, wearing a turquoise straw hat and a full-skirted blue shantung dress, laughed gaily as she stepped onto a decorated pier to be welcomed by the governor of the Leeward Islands, Sir Kenneth Blackburne, and Lady Blackburne.

She came to St. John's harbor on the royal yacht Britannia after a 300-mile cruise from Bridgetown, Barbados. It was one of the stops in her month-long tour of the West Indies.

Some 20,000 people attended a morning rally shortly before noon at which the princess expressed regret she was unable to visit Montserrat.

Monday afternoon, the princess attended a garden party at Government House, and dined privately there in the evening.

Bulganin Says:

Russia Not Changing Attitude Toward U.S.

LONDON (UP)—Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin said in an interview with American newsmen distributed by the Tass Agency yesterday that the recent reshuffle in Russia's leadership meant no change in policy towards the United States.

The Soviet agency distributed the questions and answers of Bulganin's interview Saturday with American publisher William Rapdolph Hearst, Jr., J. Kingsbury Smith, chief European correspondent of the International News Service and Frank Coniff, editor of the New York Journal American.

Hearst asked Bulganin whether the Soviet premier did not think Russia's change in leadership meant a change in attitude towards the United States, Tass said.

Hearst asked Bulganin whether Russia would be ready, even before banning atomic weapons, to conclude with the United States and other Western powers an agreement limiting the number of experimental nuclear explosions.

Bulganin replied it would be necessary to proceed in the more radical manner proposed by the Soviet Union. He said Russia proposed banning completely atomic, hydrogen and other types of mass extermination weapons, halting such weapons manufacture and removing them from the armaments race.

Bulganin added that the proposal limiting experiments would yield nothing.

Coniff asked whether an address by Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov in the Supreme Soviet might create the impression that the United States wanted war.

Coniff asked, "Did not Bulganin think that abstention from attacks on the U.S.A. by Soviet official personalities and on the U.S.S.R. by U.S. official personalities would be useful in strengthening peace?"

Chiang To Hold Islands

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Speculation rose Monday over whether the United States would help defend Matsu and Quemoy after President Chiang Kai-shek declared the islands never would be abandoned.

The U.S. 7th Fleet, which covered the peaceful withdrawal from the Tachen Islands north of Formosa, was returning to patrol stations around Formosa and to other Far East bases.

There was no confirmation here of Peiping radio's boast that the Communists Sunday "liberated" the Tachens, 200 miles north of Formosa.

There were more reports of Communist boat concentrations near the Matsus, off the coast 100 miles northwest of Formosa, but there was no indication of any intent to invade. Such concentrations are usual.

President Chiang predicted at a press conference, however, that occupation of the Tachens would make the Red "more adventurous." His interpreter said Chiang meant the Communists would try to attack Formosa.

Peiping radio in a follow-up broadcast to its "liberation" announcement asserted the Nationalist "abducted" Tachen civilians "assisted by American armed forces."

LONDON (Reuters)—Foreign Secretary Eden said Monday Nationalist China "must" be represented along with Communist China at any international conference to settle the Formosa problem.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Rebuffed by Red China and Russia, the UN Security Council Monday suspended indefinitely its public efforts to achieve a cease-fire in Formosa strait. It left the next move to diplomatic manoeuvres here and in the capitals of the major powers.

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Mao Tse-tung, the Chinese Communist head of state, declared Monday night Russia and China would wipe the "imperialists" off the face of the world if they started a war of aggression.

MOSCOW (CP)—Nicolai Bulganin, Russia's new premier, Monday night pledged that Soviet aid for Communist China "will be forthcoming whenever necessary."

Pineau Gets Bid To Form New Cabinet

PARIS (Reuters)—Christian Pineau, a former Buchenwald concentration camp inmate who writes children's books in his spare time, Monday was asked to become premier of France's 21st post-war government.

The 50-year-old lawyer promised to reply to President Rene Coty tonight after getting a green light Monday night from his fellow Socialists who, with more than 100 seats, represent the strongest party in the National Assembly.

Pineau is the third candidate to try to form a government since Pierre Mendes-France's regime fell 10 days ago.

Pineau told newspaper men he admires Mendes-France and hopes to follow his methods.

Holdup Suspects Nabbed

WINNIPEG (BUP)—Three men were charged with the armed robbery of $30,000 from a branch of the Toronto-Dominion Bank today after a province-wide dragnet hauled them in last night within hours of the theft.

Police said the suspects were Sanual Ronald Sedan, 25, of Winnipeg; Fred Gordon Bush, 27, of Calgary, Alta., and Mitchel Herman, 32, no fixed address. Police said Bush also used the alias Eugene Austin Hartson.

George Blow, Winnipeg police superintendent, said that when the money found on the suspects is counted, it is expected to equal the amount stolen. The bank gave the exact tally as $31,397.

Bush and Herman were arrested at Sprague, Man., by RCMP constables J. C. Mansbridge and J. P. R. Beaudette. A tip sent the police to Piney, Man., where they learned a train had just pulled out for Sprague. They went to Sprague and recognized the two suspects on the train.

The bandits forced their way into the bank Monday morning before opening time. As the employees arrived one by one, they herded the four men and two women — plus a delivery man — into a basement vault after forcing teller Tom Bissett to open the main vault. They took Bissett's car for the getaway.

Godfrey In Pain

MIAMI BEACH (UP)—Television and radio star Arthur Godfrey said yesterday he probably will have to undergo a second operation on his hip "if I am ever to walk again without pain."

Godfrey said he had been thinking about such an operation for a long time but denied reports that he had made any definite plans for it yet.

He injured the hip many years ago in an automobile accident.

Mystery Ends

ANGUS MACDONALD

Cloak-and-dagger mystery of the "radioactive vial" ended yesterday when veteran Angus MacDonald of Beardmore, Ont., learned the tiny, two-ounce bottle of luminous substance he smuggled into Canada after the war was worth only $25. At first it was rumored the vial contained either radium or uranium worth about $1,000,000. Tests showed the substance was similiar to that used for luminous clock dials however.

IWA Plans To Demand Higher Pay

VANCOUVER (BUP)—The British Columbia district of the International Woodworkers of America set the stage last night for a 1955 wage hike campaign while delegates gathered for the group's four-day annual convention.

Resolutions going before the convention ask wage increases of 12½ to 15 per cent and recommend an increase in the union's strike fund to $5,000,000.

President Joe Morriss of Duncan told delegates the majority of B.C. loggers need higher wages and more job security.

However, he cautioned the union against staging a "raid on the industry."

The district council told members permission would be sought from international headquarters to organize Alberta to protect the union's "exposed organizational flank."

Great Blast Anticipated In U.S. Test

AEC Gives Go-Ahead For Atomic Explosion

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—With a forecast of "safe" weather, AEC officials gave the go-ahead Monday night for an A-bomb blast, apparently a "big one" that will open the 1955 winter-spring nuclear test series this morning.

For the first time in five years of testing America's arsenal of atomic weapons at the Nevada proving grounds, Highway 95 passing within 40 miles of the test site was blocked off by police "to keep drivers from being blinded and going off the road."

This led to speculation that the device was a large one, perhaps as powerful as 50,000 tons of TNT, or maybe as large as the biggest one ever touched off here—a 65,000 tonner two years ago whose flash was seen in Montana, 1,000 miles away.

Troops participating in the test also were not as close to "ground zero" this time as they have been in some previous test. The six-foot-deep trenches dug to hold some of the 1,100 military personnel taking part are at least two and one-quarter miles away, AEC officials said.

The flash of the "ordinary" A-bomb, in the neighborhood of 15 kilotons (equivalent to 15,000 tons of TNT) has in the past been witnessed by residents of at least three states—California, Utah and Nevada.

ZERO HOUR SET

A briefing late Monday for newsmen confirmed that the shot was set to go from a 500-foot steel tower at the north end of Yucca Flat at 5:45 a.m. (PST) barring any last-minute switch in wind and weather conditions.

Richard Elliott, director of the joint office of test information, said he could not comment officially on an unverified report that the device was the A-bomb "trigger" of the cataclysmic H-bomb. The speculation grew out of a statement that the test was a "major effort of the Livermore (Calif) laboratory."

Elliott commented that "I do not think we can make any distinctions between the Livermore and Los Alamos laboratories since both work on the entire range of atomic weapons."

MANY OBSERVERS

Military observers participating include 375 observers from the army continental command, 100 observers from the navy, air force and marines, 450 soldiers from the permanent "housekeeping" detachment from nearby Camp Desert Rock and 175 miscellaneous men in control parties.

The AEC, acutely aware of public complaints and worry over safety from radiological "fall out," planned to hold the lanyard on the firing control until the last minute with an eye cocked on weather charts.

Any sudden and unpredicted shift in the wind would cause instant postponement until disappearance of any danger from an unscheduled drift over populated areas.

FIRST IN TWO YEARS

The shot is the 33rd A-bomb detonation held in continental United States, but the first in two years. Other atomic and hydrogen tests have been held at Eniwetok, in the Pacific.

A vast network of both stationary and mobile radiation monitoring stations was spread over a 200-mile area to the north and east of Ucca flat instantly to ring the alarm for any uncalculated "fall out" from the disintegrating cloud.

Phone Carries Girl's Pleas

Officer Hears Axe Attack

CLOVIS, N.M. (AP)—A helpless police desk sergeant listened over the telephone Sunday night to a 14-year-old girl pleading for her life as an axe-wielding assailant beat down her bedroom door.

Sgt. Leroy Carson said Janice Wells, alone in her home, phoned for help after hearing the man at the door. She was able to give only her address before the door crashed in, but the phone remained off the hook.

Carson said he dispatched a squad car at once. The car, only six blocks away, arrived just after the unknown assailant—who got away—had dragged Janice out the front door and around behind the house.

Janice, daughter of Mrs. Eileen Sasser, was taken to a hospital with wounds about the face and throat but was removed from the critical list at noon Monday.

Deputy sheriff Val Baumgart said her assailant struck her on the side of the head with the blunt edge of the axe and then with the sharp edge across the forehead and again across the throat.

Salk Vaccine: Does It Work? Is It Safe?

Dead Polio Viruses Build Body's Defenses

Parents of five and six-year-old children have only two weeks to decide whether they will allow the youngsters to be inoculated by public health authorities with the new Salk anti-polio vaccine.

Two big questions will be in their minds: (1) Are the vaccinations safe; and (2) are they effective?

This is the first of two articles in answer to these questions.

BY R. O. MARRION

The Salk vaccine that will be given to almost 7,000 children in this area in a series of injections in April and May is as safe as modern science can make it.

From the record, so far, that's pretty safe.

Judging the safety of the vaccine involves understanding not only how it is made and handled, but what it does when it is injected into the body.

When germs or viruses attack a human body, they are met by an opposing army. The soldiers in this army are antibodies.

Antibodies are protein particles which, circulating in the blood, can combine with and conquer the invading germs or viruses. When an invasion begins, the body starts making appropriate antibodies—appropriate, because each kind of germ or virus has to be fought by a different kind of antibody.

If the antibodies are produced quickly enough, the invaders fail to secure a beachhead. If they aren't, the invaders gain the upper hand and their victories, temporary or permanent, mean illness or, at worst, death.

Once a human body has produced a specific kind of antibody, it usually is well prepared to produce the same sort of antibody again quickly and in volume. Its manning pools are established and ready to run.

Most people, by the time they reach their mid-teens, have already been invaded by three separate types of virus that can cause paralytic polio. In battles of which they may have been unaware, they have successfully produced armies of antibodies and gained immunity.

The purpose of the Salk vaccine is to create antibody armies in those who are not immune.

This it does, in safety, by introducing the enemy in considerable force, but already dead.

The body's sentries apparently don't know or don't care about the difference between a live enemy and a dead one. They sound the alarm, and recruiting begins.

Each child receiving the anti-polio vaccine will receive about 10 billion dead polio viruses, of all three paralyzing types, in each of three injections.

The first two injections will be a week apart and the third a month later. This is because the first two appear to alert the body and prepare it for quick action, and the third, the "booster" shot, really brings on maximum anti-body production.

All the Salk vaccine in Canada is made in the Connaught Laboratories in To-

Negro Chiefs Seized

Police Surround Native Quarter

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (Reuters) — Thirty members of the African National Congress were arrested in the Sophiatown native quarter here Monday night, a few hours before the second transfer of Negro families from the district to a new segregated township outside the city was due to begin.

Robert Resha, secretary of the congress' Transvaal branch, said the arrested persons were congress volunteers engaged in assisting families that have received eviction notices but wish to remain in Sophiatown.

Police closed in and arrested the 30 as they called at seven homes in the district, Resha said. The volunteers were seeking to help families move from their doomed homes into other quarters in Sophiatown, instead of being shifted by the government to Meadowlands, the government's new resettlement township, 10 miles outside the city.

Resha said a cordon of police had been placed around all houses from which 150 families were scheduled to be moved before dawn. "No one was allowed to go near the houses," he declared.

He said there were no incidents during the arrests.

Resha himself was arrested a week ago for allegedly violating a government order prohibiting assemblies during the first stages of the compulsory removal program, but was released within 24 hours.

HOMES SCRAPPED

The government has already evicted 150 families and started to demolish their homes. A new, all-white suburb eventually is planned on the Sophiatown site.

About 50 of the families evicted last week moved into other quarters in the district, while the remainder were transported by a fleet of government trucks to their new homes at Meadowlands. The removal program has been bitterly condemned by the African congress and many church leaders in this country.

Ultimately, about 70,000 natives are due to be moved by the government from Johannesburg districts to Meadowlands, in the biggest mass transfer of population in South Africa's history.

Third Trial Begins

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Circus worker Lawrence Vincent made legal history in British Columbia yesterday when he appeared at the assize court here for his third trial on the same murder charge.

Vincent, alias Aaron Hinton, was charged with the shoelace strangulation of 12-year-old Donna Lee Corbett of Quesnel on September 12, 1953.

He was convicted last summer and sentenced to be hanged. On appeal, he was granted a second trial but the jury failed to agree on a verdict and a third trial was ordered.

Defense counsel Raymond Hughes yesterday won the judge's approval to suppress from evidence two police pictures of the victim's body. Mr. Justice Wendell B. Farris held that the photographs could "inflame" the jury by their "horribleness."

Gay Princess Continues Tour

ST. JOHN'S, Antigua (Reuters)—Princess Margaret arrived at this "rum-and-arrowroot" Caribbean island Monday on a royal barge which edged into the harbor between sloops and fishing boats festooned with Union Jacks.

The princess, wearing a turquoise straw hat and a full-skirted blue shantung dress, laughed gaily as she stepped onto a decorated pier to be welcomed by the governor of the Leeward Islands, Sir Kenneth Blackburne, and Lady Blackburne.

She came to St. John's harbor on the royal yacht Britannia after a 300-mile cruise from Bridgetown, Barbados. It was one of the stops in her month-long tour of the West Indies.

Some 20,000 people attended a morning rally shortly before noon at which the princess expressed regret she was unable to visit Montserrat.

Monday afternoon, the princess attended a garden party at Government House, and dined privately there in the evening.

Bulganin Says:

Russia Not Changing Attitude Toward U.S.

LONDON (UP)—Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin said in an interview with American newsmen distributed by the Tass Agency yesterday that the recent reshuffle in Russia's leadership meant no change in policy towards the United States.

The Soviet agency distributed the questions and answers of Bulganin's interview Saturday with American publisher William Randolph Hearst, Jr., J. Kingsbury Smith, chief European correspondent of the International News Service and Frank Coniff, editor of the New York Journal American.

Hearst asked Bulganin whether the Soviet premier did not think Russia's change in leadership meant a change in attitude towards the United States, Tass said.

Hearst asked Bulganin whether Russia would be ready, even before banning atomic weapons, to conclude with the United States and other Western powers an agreement limiting the number of experimental nuclear explosions.

Bulganin replied it would be necessary to proceed in the more radical manner proposed by the Soviet Union. He said Russia proposed banning completely atomic, hydrogen and other types of mass extermination weapons, halting such weapons manufacture and removing them from the armaments race.

Bulganin added that the proposal limiting experiments would yield nothing.

Coniff asked whether an address by Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov in the Supreme Soviet might create the impression that the United States wanted war.

Coniff asked, "Did not Bulganin think that abstention from attacks on the U.S.A. by Soviet official personalities and on the U.S.S.R. by U.S. official personalities would be useful in strengthening peace?"

Chiang To Hold Islands

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Speculation rose Monday over whether the United States would help defend Matsu and Quemoy after President Chiang Kai-shek declared the islands never would be abandoned.

The U.S. 7th Fleet, which covered the peaceful withdrawal from the Tachen Islands north of Formosa, was returning to patrol stations around Formosa and to other Far East bases.

There was no confirmation here of Peiping radio's boast that the Communists Sunday "liberated" the Tachens, 200 miles north of Formosa.

There were more reports of Communist boat concentrations near the Matsus, off the coast 100 miles northwest of Formosa, but there was no indication of any intent to invade. Such concentrations are usual.

President Chiang predicted at a press conference, however, that occupation of the Tachens would make the Red "more adventurous." His interpreter said Chiang meant the Communists would try to attack Formosa.

Peiping radio in a follow-up broadcast to its "liberation" announcement asserted the Nationalist "abducted" Tachen civilians "assisted by American armed forces."

LONDON (Reuters)—Foreign Secretary Eden said Monday Nationalist China "must" be represented along with Communist China at any international conference to settle the Formosa problem.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Rebuffed by Red China and Russia, the UN Security Council Monday suspended indefinitely its public efforts to achieve a cease-fire in Formosa strait. It left the next move to diplomatic manoeuvres here and in the capitals of the major powers.

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Mao Tse-tung, the Chinese Communist head of state, declared Monday night Russia and China would wipe the "imperialists" off the face of the world if they started a war of aggression.

MOSCOW (CP)—Nicolai Bulganin, Russia's new premier, Monday night pledged that Soviet aid for Communist China "will be forthcoming whenever necessary."
